

Beautiful Beginnings Lasting Memories

As Luck Would Have It ...

Many people believe that 7 is a lucky number while others feel it has religious significance due to Biblical references. Therefore, couples looking to start their lives together on a lucky note have chosen to get married on what some feel will be the luckiest day in a long time.

According to TheKnot.com, roughly 31,000 couples are getting married on July 7, more than double the average number for a Saturday in July. Therefore, the Lucky 7 rush to the altar has caused quite a ripple effect in the wedding industry. Many vendors are cashing in on couples' desires to tie the knot on this date. Typically, Saturday night weddings already garner premium prices, but some wedding reception sites and other vendors are capitalizing on the lucky-seven theme. They're increasing prices for couples who will do anything for a lucky-seven wedding. Others are creating special packages that build upon the "7" theme. Seven-layer wedding cakes, bridal suites with "7" in the room number and reception tables in multiples of seven are just some of the specials available.

Lucky Engagement

While it may be too late for many to book a lucky-seven wedding for this year, couples planning on getting engaged can use the day to mark the occasion. A lucky-seven engagement may be the next best thing to a lucky-seven wedding. For those popping the question, consider these tips for maximizing the theme:

TRUE LOVE HAS A BEGINNING BUT NO END...

The ceremony of exchanging wedding bands is the symbol of eternal love.

At Halton Hills Fine Jewellery, you'll find a beautiful selection of matching and plain wedding bands in 10 Kt, 14 Kt, and 18 Kt. We can even engrave both your initials and your wedding date on the inside.

To make your wedding day even more special, it is not uncommon for grooms to give their brides a strand of pearls or perhaps a gold locket, diamond earrings or pendant.

In turn, the bride can give cuff links to the groom for that perfect finishing detail.

Tie bars are other suggestions, all of which have been chosen by Halton Hills Fine Jewellery with the same care as our rings.
