It's hard to believe that we're entering that busy season!

Most retailers have been reminding us that holiday season preparations are already underway. For many though, pesky debt responsibilities can dampen their planning and holiday enjoyment. Others may not worry about their debts, thinking they can always get their financial house in order after the holidays.

But if you're concerned about your debt obligations, consider adding one more task to your pre-holiday season to-do list! See if you can use your home equity to consolidate your high-interest debt in to a new or existing mortgage. You'll lower your payments, save on interest and can power down your debt faster. In almost every case, you're better off holding your debt in a mortgage than in any other lending vehicle. Why? Because Canadian home owners are benefiting from mortgage rates that are still among the lowest in decades.

Worried about penalties to break your current mortgage? Have your situation assessed; there's a good chance that the savings each month will far out weigh any penalties.

Consider a situation where your current mortgage is $155,000 at 6% and you have a monthly payment of $992. In addition to your mortgage you have a car loan of $20,000 and credit cards maxed out at $20,000. You are paying $1,200 a month on the car loan and credit cards for a total monthly payment of $2,192. You're feeling financially stressed with that monthly payment so you meet with a qualified mortgage planner to assess your situation.

Your mortgage planner presents a scenario in which you get a new mortgage for $198,000 to cover the original $155,000, the $40,000 in credit cards and car loan, and $3,000 to break your mortgage. Your new mortgage is also at 6% but you now have a much lower overall monthly payment of $1,267.

With this new scenario, monthly payments are $925 less each month; a great improvement in cash flow! And if you put $400 of that cash flow into your monthly mortgage payment, you reduce your amortization from 25 years to 15. We're a fortunate generation of homeowners. We can benefit from low mortgage rates to enjoy our lives and our homes – and to manage our debt wisely.

Home equity debt consolidation is a golden opportunity, especially if you're concerned the holiday season will further add to your debt burden. Aside from the debt stress relief and interest savings, restructuring your debt will also give you a fresh start at responsible financial housekeeping. Create a plan for this year's holiday spending; set a budget and work within that amount. If this debt consolidation exercise gives you new financial comfort, you'll want to maintain that ease by living within your means during and after the holidays.

Homeowners are recognizing that they need to get smart about debt. Canadians pay a shocking amount of money on their high-interest debt, whether it's credit cards, unsecured loans, or tax bills. It all adds up. But if you have equity in your home, there's no good reason to be carrying high-interest debt.

Independent mortgage planners – who have access to more than 50 different lenders, including most of the major banks – have become specialists in helping Canadians restructure debt. In addition to offering access to a broad range of mortgage options, these experienced planners provide credit advice and debt management tips that can help save thousands of dollars.

How to personalize last-minute Christmas gifts

(NC)—You try to plan early each year by preparing a well thought out Christmas list of people to buy gifts for. Yet, without fail, there is always one or two gifts you need to get at the last minute. Your challenge becomes finding a gift that doesn't look like an after-thought.

Here are few ways to personalize those last-minute gifts and make them special.

Get it engraved. Even a generic gift like a pen or key chain can seem personal if you get the recipient's name or initials engraved on it. Most stores can do it while you wait.

Commemorate a shared event. We all have photos of fun occasions we've shared with loved ones. Grab one of those photos and put it in a fabulous frame. Wrap it with fancy paper and bows. Include a Christmas letter that details why you thought sharing that day with that person was so special.

Click on that Web link. If the stores are closing and the thought of donning your winter boots and heavy coat even one more time to make a mad dash to the store is unbearable, why not stay in the comforts of your own home and visit websites like www.cfcfcanada.ca to purchase a meaningful gift. With a wide array of life-sustaining gifts starting at only $20 like a food hamper, farm tools or vegetable garden seeds, you can give a gift for a family in-need in the developing world. Your in tribute gift will be sent in the name of the person you didn't get a chance to buy for and an electronic or printed card with a special message will be sent to this person; making them feel special and honoured.

Give a favourite snack: It may seem like a small thing, but when you need a last minute Christmas gift that says "I know you", try to remember what that person likes to snack on. What people eat and enjoy is very personal. Giving someone their favourite snack food like flavoured popcorn, home baked cookies or crunchy pickles shows that you pay attention to them and lends an air of familiarity.
