H1N1 virus continues to spread

*Halton now has 66
confirmed cases*

There have been six more confirmed cases of H1N1 influenza in Halton over the past two days, bringing the new total to 66.

Of the 66 cases, 50 are students attending 19 different schools in Halton, 15 of which are in Oakville, two in Milton and one each in Burlington and Halton Hills.

Three students at two schools in Milton have already recovered from the virus.

"We are getting reports of new cases every day," said Halton Region Medical Officer of Health Dr. Bob Nosal.

The consensus among health officials continues to be that school closures aren't yet warranted, Nosal said.

Most of the Halton cases involve mild symptoms, however one teenager was seriously ill and hospitalized.

The teen's condition has improved, according to Nosal.

Another student had been hospitalized before but recovered and was released after two days.

Halton has the highest number of confirmed H1N1 influenza cases per capita in Ontario, with the majority of cases in Oakville.

Residents are reminded that the best defence against H1N1 is to wash hands frequently with soap and water, and to cover coughs and sneezes with a tissue or sleeve. Students and adults who are ill with fever and cough must stay at home and not attend school or work.

Information on H1N1 influenza is available on Halton Region's website at www.halton.ca or by calling (905) 825-6000 or toll free 1-866-442-5866.
