School deeply affected

• from DEATH on page A1

The waterway where Patrick found his friend is north of Lindsay, Ont., west of the hamlet of Rosedale. It's a fairly deep channel that connects two major lakes, Balsam and Cameron.

In the hours preceding his death, Patrick and Anthony headed inside for dinner and then back out to build a fire.

Anthony said he was going to wash his hands in the lake. Tired from their fishing, Patrick fell asleep for about 20 minutes. When he awoke, Anthony still wasn't back.

He went looking for him and made the awful discovery.

A Facebook page created in Anthony's memory had more than 700 members as of yesterday afternoon, many who commented on his signature faux-hawk hairstyle — known to change from day to day.

BR principal Paul Cianciolo said the tragedy has deeply affected Bishop Reding.

"He was a well-loved student," Cianciolo said. "He was just a nice kid. He was always very positive, very happy."

Monday night, about 60 students gathered at BR for a prayer service. Students sat in a circle and talked about Anthony, sharing favourite memories, Cianciolo said.

The chapel at BR has been open every day, offering students a quiet place to reflect.

Anthony is survived by his parents and 20-year-old sister.

A visitation will take place tomorrow from 2 to 4 p.m. at McKersie-Kocher Funeral Home, 114 Main St. E. The funeral will be held Friday at 11 a.m. at Holy Rosary Catholic Church, 139 Martin St.
