

Ham sausage possibly contaminated with listeria sold at local grocery store

The Canadian Food Inspection Agency (CFIA) and a meat manufacturer are warning people not to eat some ham sausages sold at a Milton store because of possible listeria contamination.

Davendra Sharma, a food safety specialist at CFIA, said a particular batch of ham sausage at Superior Sausage and Meat Products Ltd. tested positive for listeria monocytogenes.

The company initiated a voluntary recall of Kielbassa Szykowna (ham sausage) purchased between December 1 and 8 from Euromax Foods on James Snow Parkway. The recall also included a ham sausage sold at the Dundas Street meat company. The recall affected a "small quantity" of ham sausage.

There have been no reported illnesses associated with the consumption of these products.

According to a press release issued

Tuesday by the CFIA, food contaminated with listeria monocytogenes might not look or smell spoiled. Consumption of food contaminated with this bacteria may cause listeriosis, a foodborne illness.

Listeriosis can cause high fever, severe headache, neck stiffness and nausea. Pregnant women, the elderly and people with weakened immune systems are particularly at risk.
