

Your Invitation To Worship

Athletes of God

The great choreographer Martha Graham said, "I believe that we learn by practice. Whether it means to learn to dance by practicing dancing or to learn to live by practicing living, the principles are the same. In each, it is the performance of a dedicated precise set of acts, physical or intellectual, from which comes shape of achievement, a sense of one's being, a satisfaction of spirit. One becomes, in some area, an athlete of God." (Martha Graham, This I Believe, National Public Radio) Two things are particularly noteworthy about this statement. One is the dedication and discipline necessary to bring about significant achievement, whether in art, or sport, or life. The second thing worth noting is how this achievement will define one's being and lead to a satisfaction of spirit. There is no denying the incredible satisfaction that comes with achievement, and especially virtuosity. Most of us will never know the satisfaction of being a prima ballerina or a professional athlete, but that doesn't mean we can't reach a level of excellence appropriate to our own capabilities. And it's not just about achieving excellence in some artistic or athletic endeavor. It's about achieving excellence in life, as a good human being. We should ask God each and every day to help us in the practice of life and strive to become an athlete of God.
