A former leader in the business of highway toll technology wants to represent the traffic-clogged community of Milton on town council.

Martin Capper, a 59-year-old resident living near Martin Capper Fifth Line and Derry Road for the past 13 years, has registered as a candidate for Ward 1 councillor in the municipal election in October. "I think I can make a difference in Milton. I'm certainly willing to give it a try," said Capper.

The 13-year resident of the town has set up an election website, www.cappercares.ca, where he outlines the issues he hopes to address on council.

Those include pushing for the Province to approve the expansion to Milton's hospital, attracting creative businesses to the community, demanding better design in both residential and employment areas, keeping taxes low, and planning transportation better to ease traffic congestion.

Capper ran MARK IV Industries until taking early retirement. Commuters might better know the company as the supplier of the transponders for the electronic toll Hwy. 407.

As a conference speaker in recent years, Capper has suggested governments use vehicle tracking technology as the backbone for a mileagebased fee system instead of gas taxes to help fund infrastructure.
