Long-serving, retiring teachers to be honoured

Special ceremony tomorrow in Oakville

More than 1,300 years of service to the Halton Catholic District School Board will be recognized as retiring and 25-year anniversary employees are honoured at a special ceremony.

The 24th annual Board Staff Recognition Night is set for tomorrow at the Oakville Conference and Banquet Centre.

The Eucharistic celebration will be officiated by Anthony Tonnos, Bishop of Hamilton, along with the Rev. Raymond Modeski, pastor of St. Patrick Church in Burlington.

The night also will include a reception and dinner for the honourees. The Bishop Reding Secondary School Jazz Band will entertain.

The Halton Catholic board will recognize 24 staff members who have served the board for 25 years and 35 who are retiring this year. Collectively, the 59 staffers have contributed more than 1,320 years of service.

"It is the strong commitment and dedication of each of our employees in their respective roles that enables our system to continue to deliver the highest quality and experience of Catholic education to the communities we serve," said Director of Education Michael Pautler.

This year, the honour of the longest-serving retiring staff member is shared by three educators, each of whom is retiring with 34 years of service: Brian Morris, vice-principal of St. Bernadette School in Oakville; Rosemary Oliver, a teacher at Canadian Martyrs School in Burlington; and Lydia Ribble, a teacher at St. Timothy School in Burlington.

In addition, two staff members are celebrating 25 years of service and are retiring this year — Cathie Castrucci, a teacher at Guardian Angels School in Milton, and Elda Fredette, a teacher at St. Vincent School in Oakville.

The following are the new 25-year employees within Milton schools of the Halton Catholic board:

- Charlene Amlinger — Bishop Reding
- Cathie Castrucci — Guardian Angels
- Dora Falcone — Guardian Angels
- Doug MacDougall — Our Lady of Victory

The following are staff of Milton schools who are retiring this year from the Halton Catholic board:

- Cathie Castrucci — Guardian Angels
- Cheri DePelsmaeker — Holy Rosary
- Nancy Pepper — St. Peter

Police torch run next Thursday

A little hometown enthusiasm will no doubt encourage participants in a charity run next Thursday.

Residents are encouraged to cheer from the sidelines as special education students from the Halton District School Board join members of the Halton Regional Police Service for the annual Law Enforcement Torch Run for Special Olympics.

There will be three separate runs throughout Halton, with Milton's kicking off with an opening ceremony at 9 a.m. at Robert Baldwin Public School, 186 Wilson Dr.

Sue Roszell, principal of student services, will attend the kick-off event, along with police and Special Olympics representatives.

Participants will make their way from Robert Baldwin to the Milton police station, 490 Childs Dr., for a post-run barbecue.

The Law Enforcement Torch Run, in partnership with the Ontario Association of Chiefs of Police, encompasses a variety of fundraising initiatives that benefit the athletes in Ontario with an intellectual disability who are involved in Special Olympics programs.

Correction

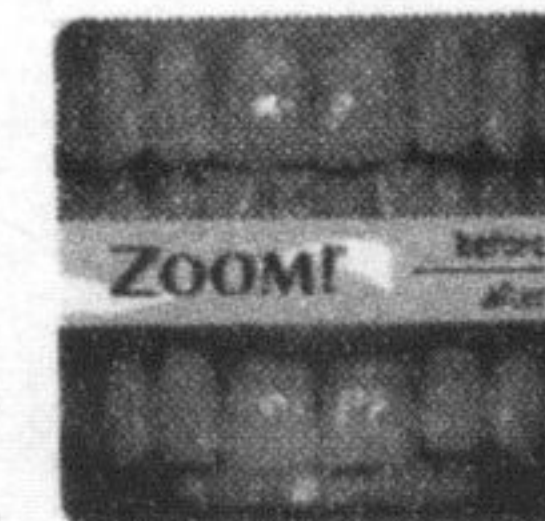

An article in the June 3 edition entitled 'Shah vies to represent Ward 6 in municipal election' contained an error.

Shah's MBA from Wilfrid Laurier University is in progress, but not complete, according to an updated biography provided to the paper.
