able gears while in Drive.

Also enabled is tow/haul mode, which provides better control when hauling a heavy load or towing a trailer, especially when descending grades. The improved system uses an array of sophisticated electronic sensors to better predict the driver's need for a downshift to provide engine braking and enhanced control.

Increased content, increased choices throughout the F-150 lineup

The wide range of powertrain options is complemented by the greater variety of offerings in the 2011

F-150 as well as the expanded content. A 4.2-inch LCD message centre and larger in-mirror rear view camera screen are among the new customer conveniences available.

New standard and available content includes three-point seat belt and head restraint for the middle passenger in the front seat, express up and down front windows, 110-volt outlet, remote start, power telescoping and tilt steering wheel and perimeter alarm.

Ford Work Solutions features an in-dash computer that provides full high-speed Internet and wireless accessories that include a mouse and printer; Tool Link, a Radio-Frequency Identification (RFID) asset tracking system that enables customers to maintain a real-time inventory of tools or equipment stored in the vehicle; Crew Chief, a fleet telematics and diagnostics system; and Cable Lock System to secure large tools or equipment in the cargo area.

Five trim levels – XL, STX, XLT, FX2/FX4 and Lariat – are again offered, but with more differentiation. Joining the XLT lineup is the new XLT Custom package tailored for customers who opt for the 3.7-litre V6.

The two-plane rearview mirrors give a full view behind even when pulling a 300-foot trailer as shown.

The interior of the 2011 Ford F-150 King Ranch is richly appointed including leather trim from, and approved by, King Ranch.
