Umicore is a specialty materials group with industrial operations on all continents serving a global base. Challenging opportunities currently exist at our Burlington facility.

Electro-Technician
You will be responsible for installing, maintaining, and improving equipment and facilities to ensure safe and reliable operation. You have an electronics, instrumentation or electro-technician diploma and a millwright certificate would be a definite asset. A solid working knowledge of instrumentation and controls, PLC programming, pneumatics, PC control, and computer software programs is necessary.

Junior Production Engineer/Chemist
You will be responsible for production process optimization, leading continual improvement initiatives, training and development, and interacting with all teams. A degree in chemical engineering, chemistry or mechanical engineering with experience in chemical processes are required.

Both positions require team players with leadership abilities, good interpersonal skills, and two to three years of experience in a manufacturing environment, preferably in chemical or automotive industries. These positions offer excellent opportunities to work and learn in a dynamic hi-tech global company. Salaries are competitive and an immediate comprehensive benefits package is available. Interested applicants should send their resume on or before December 19th, 2010, to:
