Azim Rizvee plans to make good use of Milton's Centre for the Arts.

The father of three envisions spending a lot of time in the centre's library, enjoying shows in the theatre and he'd like to host business events in the centre's grand hall.

It makes Rizvee, MinMaxx's President, CEO and Broker of Record, especially excited to know one day soon he'll host the events in the MinMaxx Hall.

Rizvee, his wife, and his three youngsters were all on hand to present the Town with a $150,000 donation to the Milton Centre for the Arts campaign, securing the naming rights to the grand hall.

"It's going to be the centre of community," said Rizvee during a cheque presentation last week at Town Hall. "It's the biggest project we've seen lately and it's coming at the right time. The community is looking forward to a centre like this."

The MinMaxx Hall will be used for exhibitions, performing arts events, art exhibits, banquets, receptions and corporate events.

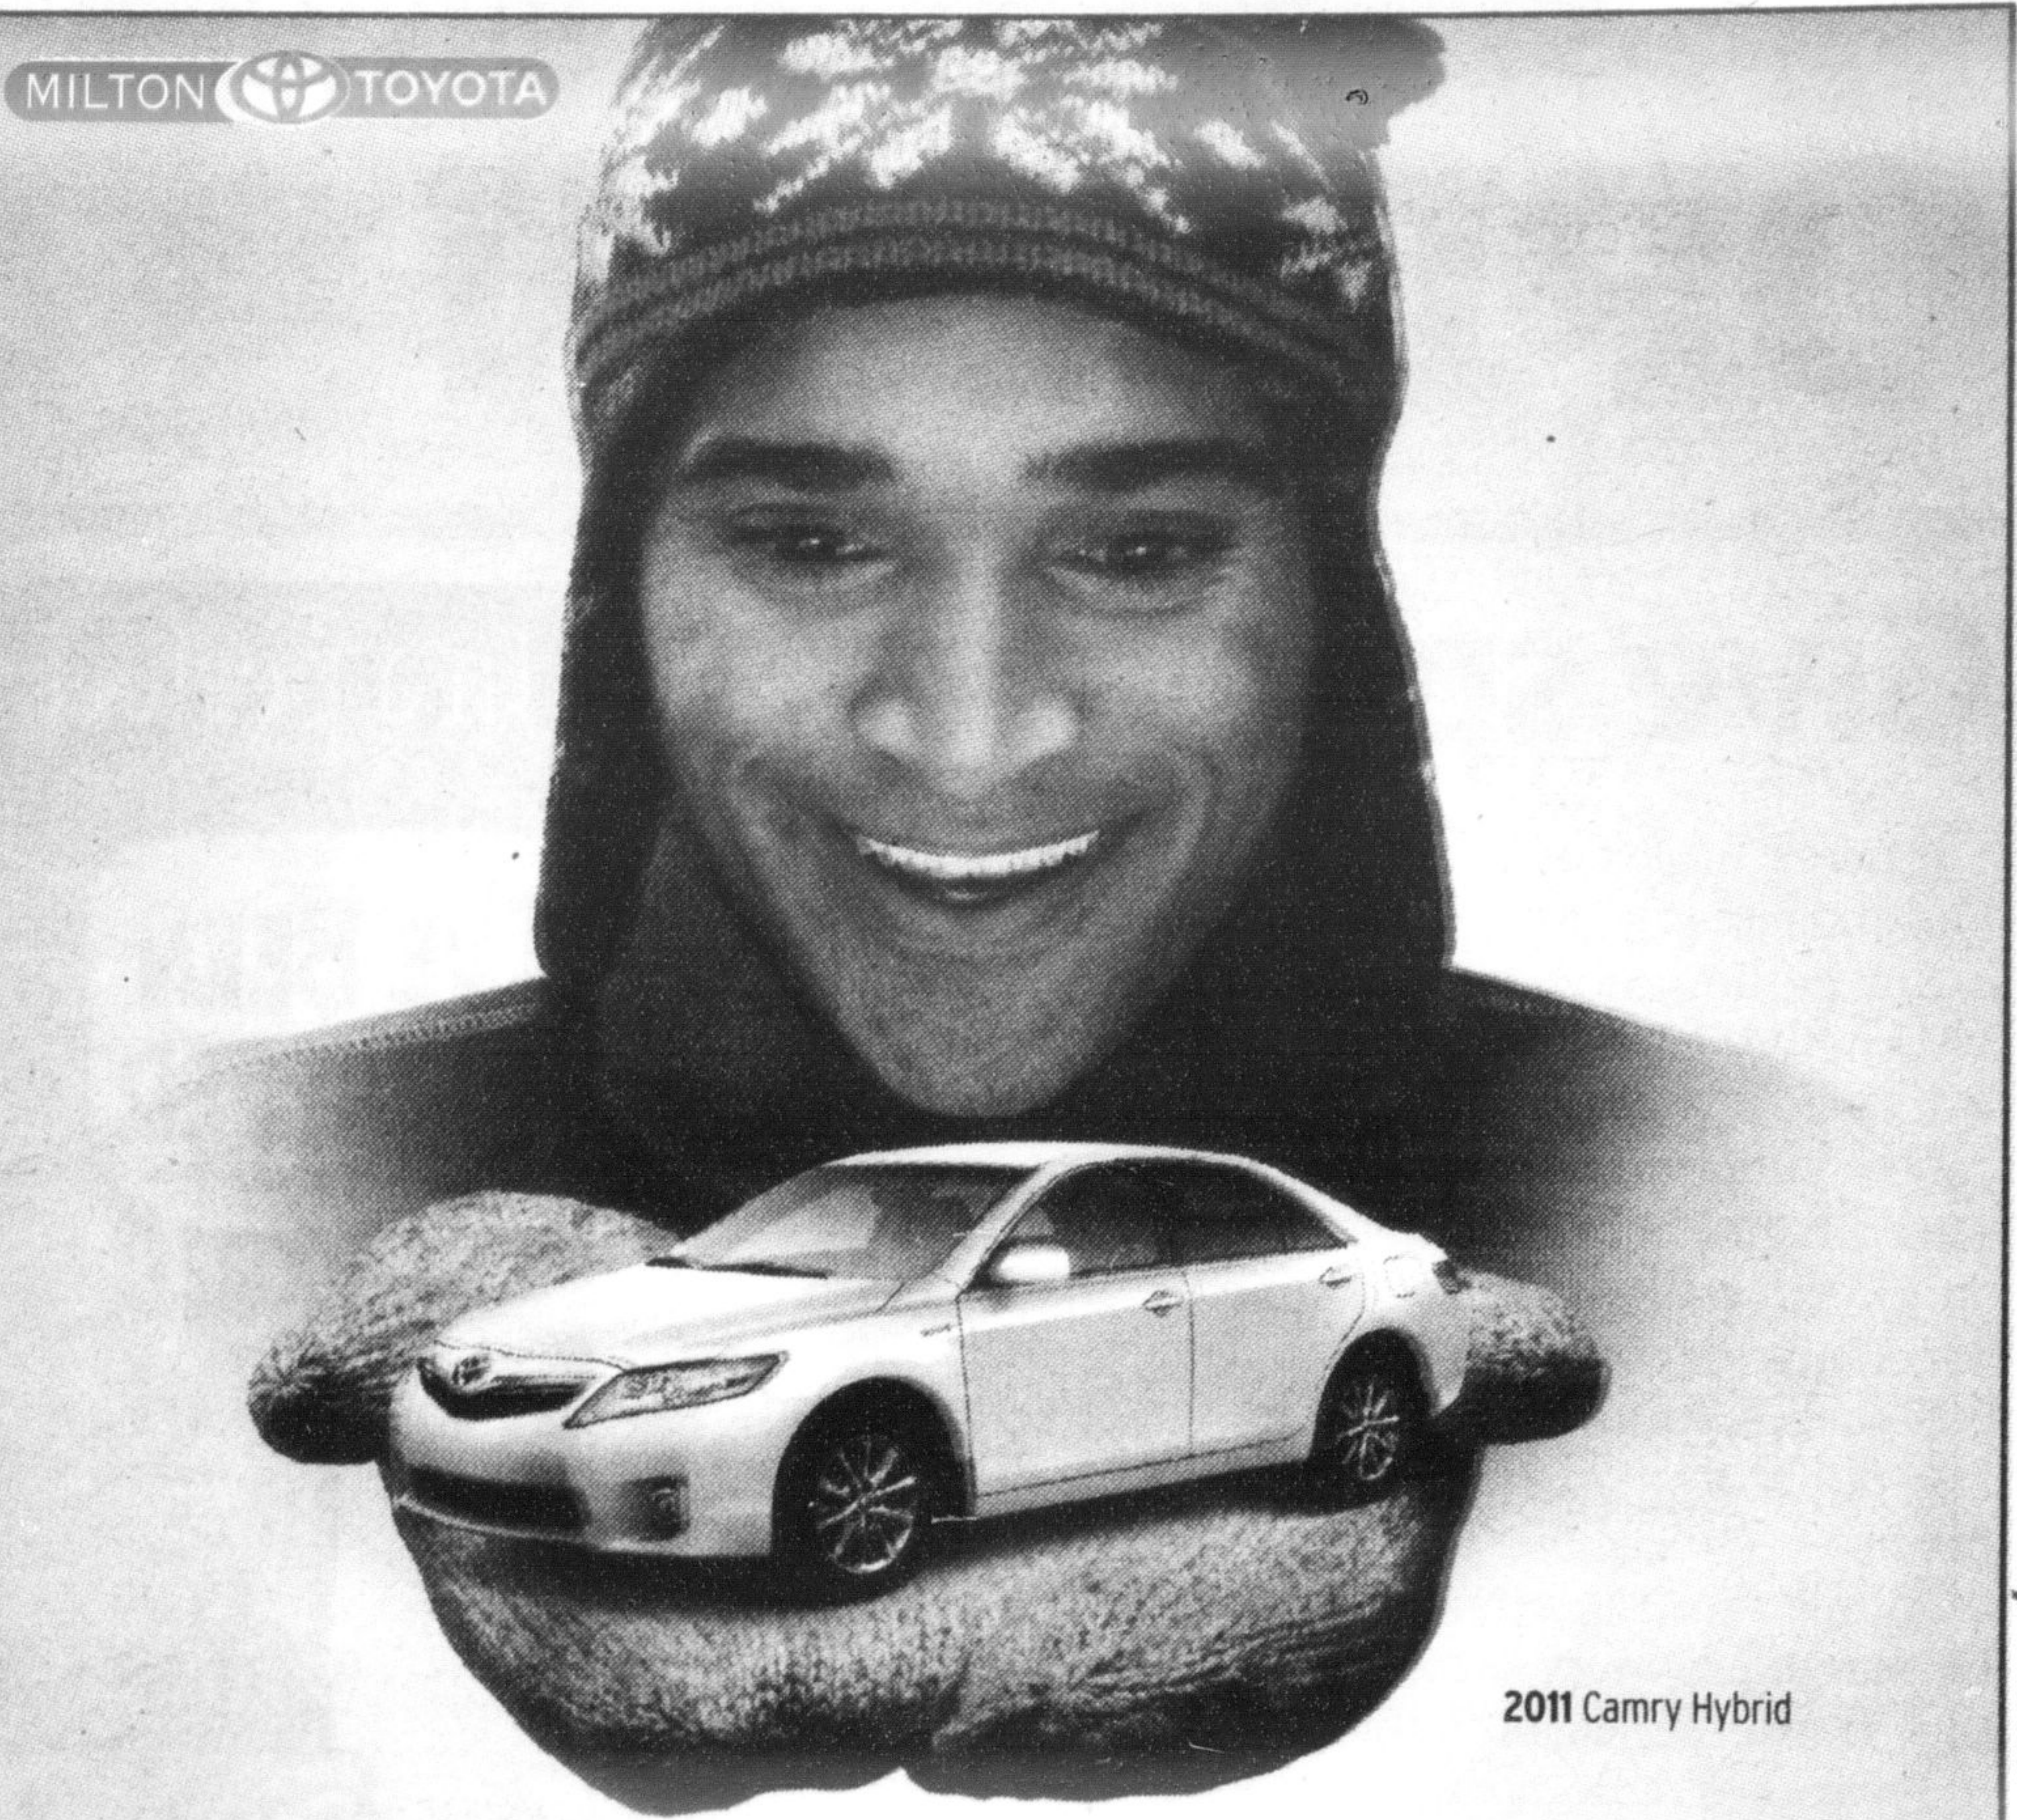

Since beginning to list houses in Milton six years ago, Rizvee said he's pleased MinMaxx has been named the GTA's leading real estate company from 2007 to 2009. In turn, he said the company is happy to give back to the community where it has seen much success.

In the past, MinMaxx Realty Inc. has sponsored local soccer teams and donated to charity events, hospital fundraisers and Muslim community events. "We're always looking for more opportunities," said Rizvee.

The MinMaxx donation sets the Put Your Heart in the Arts campaign at the $1.75 million mark, about $450,000 shy of its goal. The funds will help offset the operating costs of the centre.
