

Invite parents join Halton Home, School

The Halton Home and School Council elected its executive at the annual meeting in June. They are Janet Hill, president; Bob Massey, vice-president; Sheila Kennedy, recording secretary; Stephana Johnston, treasurer; and David Barber, Halton Education Association president.

The Halton Board of Education has appointed, as representatives to the Council, Trustees Rev. Morton and William Herd. The group's first meeting is this week. Parents whose children attend any school in Halton County are invited to send representatives to all meetings of the Halton Home and School Council in order to receive help in organizing a Home and School association at their school. Alternatively, any Halton resident may join the Halton Education Association which is affiliated with the Halton Home and School Council by calling its president, David Barber at 845-4798.

Kick off season

Wine, cheese party

Following this there was a business meeting, with Dolores Gottenberg, the president, in the chair. She gave a report on the Victoria Conference of the C.F.U.W. which she attended this summer, and mentioned areas of concern requiring examination and attention by the club.

Plans were completed for the annual book sale to be held on Friday, Sept. 26 and Saturday, Sept. 27, at the fair grounds during Milton's Fall Fair.

The University Women's Club of Milton and District held its annual wine and cheese party on Thursday, Sept. 11 at the home of Agnes Ruhl. Many prospective new members were welcomed and old members renewed friendships after the break for the summer holidays.

An enjoyable time was had and thanks were given to Agnes Ruhl for the use of her home and to Sharon Pyle and her committee for arranging the party.

Wedding

Bonhan - Mahon

In a pretty candlelight service at St. David's Presbyterian Church, Campbellville Aug. 8, Margaret Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Mahon, Campbellville, was united in marriage to Howard Randell Raymond Bonham, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Bonham of Oakville. Douglas Dredge was organist and Elmer Dredge sang The Wedding Prayer and O Perfect Love.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in white organdy. She wore diamond earrings, a gift from the groom, and a silver bracelet her mother had worn at her wedding.

Daisy nosegays
Miss Brenda Camp of Campbellville was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Marilyn Martin of Milton, Miss Heather Argall of Milton, and Miss Gayle Bonham, the groom's sister. Bob Bonham of Milton, brother of the groom, was best man and the ushers were Philip Mahon, brother of the bride of Campbellville, John Saunders of Oakville and Jim Gray of Oakville.

The ceremony was followed by a dinner for 150 guests in Holiday Inn, Oakville. B. C. McNab of Milton was emcee for the evening. The bride's uncle, H. E. Walton of Campbellville proposed the toast to the bride and the best man, Bob Bonham, toasted the bridesmaids.

Special guests attending were the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. E. Bonham.

A dance followed the dinner and the happy couple left for a honeymoon in Pennsylvania.

Showers given
Showers honoring the bride were given by Miss Kerry Thompson in Guelph; Misses Marilyn Martin and Heather Argall in Milton; Mesdames Bob Elliot, Jack Wheelihan and Dick Boomhower in Campbellville; Miss Brenda Cramp and Mrs. Douglas Agnew in Campbellville; Mrs. E. Bonham in Belfountain; and Mrs. H. Johnston in Oakville. The bride's mother entertained at a trousseau tea for her daughter.

Friends of the groom held a stag party for him in Oakville.

UCW plan catering

Fourteen ladies attended the Sept. 9 meeting of Hillcrest United Church UCW with president Mrs. W. Bird presiding. Mrs. V. Pickett was pianist for the hymns, Mrs. J. Wickson was in charge of devotions and Mrs. J. Bellbody read the scriptures.

Mrs. Robert Cunningham read articles on church union from church publications and the roll call was "reminiscing during our church years up to the present."

In the correspondence read by Mrs. C. Wigglesworth, members were invited to meetings in Guelph and Grimsby. The treasurer's report showed $1,159 on hand. It was agreed to sell church picture plates at $2.50. Revised catering prices were approved. The group planned to provide lunch for Halton Presbyterian ministers Sunday evening Sept. 14, also a turkey supper Oct. 22, a wedding Nov. 15, also the Federation banquet.

Library worker tells of services available

Hornby Women's Institute met Sept. 10 at the home of Mrs. Ron MacPherson with 12 present. The president Mrs. R. Wilson conducted the meeting and Mrs. L. Sampson read the minutes. A letter was received from the adopted Chinese child and the fee for her keep was renewed for one year. Plans were made for a training school on "Salute to Vegetables" at Ligny Hall Sept. 29 and 30 with Mrs. C. Wigglesworth and Miss L. Godward to represent the branch. Mrs. P. Merry, convener of Canadian Industries, led the program. Roll call was bringing a craft you made. She read an article on bees and introduced the speaker Mrs. John Bradley who has taken librarian courses and is an ardent worker at Milton Library. She had worked at the Percy Merry School library and one in Oakville. She is currently in her second term on Milton Library Board.

Why do we read? she asked. She said it is because everything we read makes some impression on our lives and the more you understand other people the more you understand yourself.

The library is a whole centre of communication with films, records, videotapes, large print books for people with sight problems, recorders to go with talking books for the blind, arthritic or handicapped. It also has projectors for rent, a copying machine, a reference department available by phone, newspapers and magazines, local history displays, summer programs for children, story hours for preschoolers, a room available for meetings.

She concluded by showing a Laurel and Hardy film.

Alice doesn't live here anymore

Alice doesn't live here anymore. For 80 years she has survived this life as best she could and now she's decided not to try so hard any longer.

Alice is resting. She's not dead, she's just taking a break.

Alice came to live with us two years ago. She had given my husband and her other four children and their father a home and love and security for over 50 years. As often happens, she was left alone in the house she had help build. Two of her five children were surviving and she had buried her husband a few years before.

She had trouble adjusting to life alone. Memories of her life were in those homestead walls.

The time her infant daughter died of pneumonia. The telegram she received that her 19-year-old soldier son was dead. The son who lingered with leukemia on a couch in the living room and finally rested there in his coffin.

Too late

Uprooting herself when she sold the house took great courage. The apartment was no better. She had left it too late to begin a life of her own.

Grandma (as we have labelled her) was taken ill, spent a few months in a hospital and then transferred to a nursing home. That was two years ago. In her eyes you went to a nursing home to die and that's just what she set out to do.

She became despondent and very, very lonely.

It's usually a big decision to make room in a busy household for the senior generation. With us it took one look at her unhappiness and five second for her to accept our suggestion.

A new life

Having Alice with us was a new experience for her as well as for my husband, myself and our four boys. She was used to peace and quiet, and if nothing else, her independence.

She was, as they say, set in her ways.

We were used to the noisy household only four growing boys and their parents can endure... to having a fairly relaxed and flexible attitude about life and to the naturally exhilarated pace of modern living.

Good for boys

It worked remarkably well. Her health improved and she had something and someone else to think about other than herself. Much of her living was done in past, but that only served to educate the boys.

They know the story of her father coming from Cornwall on a sailing vessel to Canada at the age of six weeks. They know of his struggle to build a long cabin and of their great-grandmother's hardships raising a family in those days.

They listened with disbelief at the Christmases when all Grandma got was an orange. They looked at all the old pictures she keeps in the card box tied securely with an elastic band, and they knew of a time when life was a physical hardship.

Last week Alice took to her bed. She imagines she has ailments ranging from her son's leukemia to her daughter's pneumonia. No doubt she's suffering the symptoms.

Needs our love

She once again needs more care than we can give her. She still needs our love and our attention but she can no longer function in this home environment.

We understand Alice hasn't consciously made the decision to give up. We realize the effort it takes to cope with life and particularly with old age.

Alice doesn't live here any more. She's living in her mind when life had a real purpose for her.

For a fun evening while you make your own things for gifts and home

X marks the spot on election day, September 18

If your name is on the list of voters, you have the right to vote in this Ontario Provincial Election. To make it as convenient as possible, the polling places in each district are centrally located in your area. An attempt has also been made to make polling places as accessible as possible for physically handicapped and elderly voters. Check your proof of enumeration, Form 103, for the address of your polling place.

On Election Day, September 18, your polling station will be open 9.00 a.m. to 8.00 p.m. EDT.

Marking Your Ballot

On the wall of each polling place, directions for marking your ballot will be in plain view. If you have any other questions, ask the person who gives you your ballot. The ballot resembles the one illustrated below, with the candidates' names listed alphabetically. Vote for only one candidate by marking an X in the circle, after the name.

- 1 MARGARET ADAMSON
- 2 BRIAN MURTRITH
- 3 JOHN TAYBELL
- 4 WILLIAM WILLMOND
