

... the Greening of Milton

Next year Milton will celebrate the 125th anniversary of the founding of this town. Many projects, including an associated 150th anniversary celebration for Campbellville, are now in the formative stages.

With the implementation, hopefully, of the recommendations by this time next year, Lyon and Turner have made a suggestion which is hard to top in the way of commemorating our 125 years of Milton-style heritage.

"The mill pond and the beautiful unimproved land surrounding it can become the jewelled centrepiece of Milton's 125th anniversary in 1982.

"Few cities or towns have a natural resource remotely approaching it for atmosphere, convenience, and recreational potential.

"It is a gem and should be treated as such.

"Community attention should be lavished upon it."

To start with, the pond be drained and then dredged to get out the junk before it is refilled. At the same time it is suggested the debris be cleared way from the banks of the Sixteen Mile Creek.

This would be complemented by an upgrading of the walkway beside the mill pond to the stature of a year-round nature trail.

Gravelled and compacted, it should have a surface which can be used by the old and those in wheelchairs and that would mean ramping the steep portion by the small bridge.

The work would be done by the town or through the volunteering work of community groups and service clubs.

The object would be to have the work completed just in time for the 125th anniversary.

"The potential for community activities on and around the mill pond is enormous.

"The Martin-Kernighan estate could once again become Livingstone Park, treated as a base of operations for a boat rental concession, or be operated by students during the summer months.

"The lawns of the park could become a picnic and games area for family outings.

"The pond could be the scene of boat and canoe races between competing neighborhoods, service groups and schools.

"A pontoon-mounted stage could serve as a platform for musical concerts at the pond's edge.

"With appropriate parking, the park could serve as a starting point for nature walks, with and without guides."

Did we get our $15,000 worth in this report?

The Milton Chamber of Commerce Civic Committee certainly thinks so, and so do those people closely involved with the program since its inception two years ago.

Now it is up to you, the residents of Milton to decide.

We can ignore this report, which has been so painstakingly prepared, or we can throw our full support behind the idea.

Like the consultant said.

"One paint-up and fix-up stimulates neighbors to follow suit.

"Improvements have a way of snowballing."

There is beauty to be found. This shows the Krantz Building on the left and the old Thompson House Hotel on the right. Beneath the paint and false fronts this is what the buildings really could look like and they show the heritage construction to good effect.

Another laneway suggestion. There the consultants have transformed the laneway alongside Knox Church to part of the heritage walkway they are proposing.

Doors opened

The Catherine T. Hainer McMartin Room was officially opened Thursday at Halton Region Museum by Milton Mayor Gord Krantz, left, Erla Brittain, Museum Curator and Jack Raftis, Halton Regional Chairman. Catherine McMartin was a former resident and school teacher from the Milton district.
