

Between the Willows

Onwards--upwards

By Don Byers
Right off the top, I would like to thank all those who have offered condolences over the unfortunate cancellation of the "Between the Willows" 5th Anniversary Picnic. I would also like to acknowledge the many helpful suggestions about what to do with the caviar and champagne—including the rather tacky tip from a Mr. O. (Same to you, buddy!)
Well, folks, that's all behind us now. Ahead for me, a whole stack of blank pages. (Which reminds me of the sign which hung on the wall of my office when I was creative director of an advertising agency. It read "Where were you when the page was blank?")
Where indeed.

I'm staring at such a page now. And it's as challenging this time out as it's ever been.

A reader asked me, not long ago: "How do you go about writing your column? I've followed it for years now and I never know what to expect. One week you're back in Toronto in the Thirties. The next you're chasing a baby rabbit around your house on Mount Nemo. Level with me, Don, did these things really happen?"
Rest assured. They all did.

When I'm strictly digging for your funnybone, as I did when I quoted reports from the non-existent "Cragview Chronicle", I always gave the appropriate reader warning.

Perhaps, some of the experiences I have shared with you were not all that damned funny at the time. But if we can't laugh at ourselves in retrospect, life can become pretty tedious. Gad. There is enough junk around to be depressed about.

To complete my answer to the reader, I try to write well ahead of deadline, which is another reason I avoid current events. Dead fish become conspicuously unattractive after a while.

O.K. Changing gears in order to reach the top of the hill I've written myself onto, let's move along.

Occasionally in this space, I have been anything but sweetness and light. I'm not about to apologize for these rare occurrences, despite the personal mandate I established for "Between the Willows" five years ago—which was to present material that was not controversial; to entertain, and to make readers smile as they were reminded of similar events in their own lives. When you think about it, we all have a column to write.

Like you, there are times when stupidity and arrogance, in high, and not so high places are so flaming flagrant, I can't let it go unchallenged. Hence the odd bitchy column.

"Yeh. Give it to them Don."

Let's wind this up on a positive note. It's been a good summer, as summers go (and they do so, anymore, at an incredible rate). If you are a regular reader of this space, you know that it was a special time for the Byers Clan.

With the postal strike resolved for now, I've been winging letters to Vancouver, and looking forward to receiving in return the latest news from Mr. and Mrs. Rick Byers.

Autumn is moving towards centre stage. Winter is waiting in the wings. And anytime now, pre-Christmas advertising will launch upon us in all its hoary, Good grief!

Thanks for listening. See you next time.

Historical Society tour to help restoration

Anxious to raise funds for the restoration of five old burial grounds in Milton, the Milton Historical Society has announced its first fall house tour will be held Saturday, Oct. 3.

The tour of 10 locations ranges from regency cottages to modern architecture as the Society located interesting homes of historical, restoration or modern interest.

The tour will run from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and a single $5 ticket will allow admission to each home on the tour.

In addition, restaurants have been asked to participate by featuring pioneer-type luncheons that day. At the library, the slide presentation on "A Miller's Walk" produced by Jim Dills will be shown several times through the day. Historical Society president Valerie Grimshaw said council has indicated it is interested in seeing some restoration work done on the five old burial grounds, most prominent of which is the pioneer cemetery on Bronte St. beside the P. L. Robertson Manufacturing plant where most of Milton's earliest inhabitants are buried. She hopes some form of cairn can be built, incorporating the remains of the stones in the cemetery.

Hawthorne Lodge on Tremaine Rd., now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Johnston, is an 1849 stone house which has grown from its original one and a half storeys to its present day two-storey form. For many years it operated as a lodge, catering to visitors and serving banquets in its homey dining rooms.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Higgins on MacArthur Dr. near Campbellville is a beautiful example of modern traditional. It sits on its own wooded acres, hinting a trace of Vermont.

A regency cottage on Mill St., now the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ostler, was a ladies' school in 1855. It's also included on the day's tour.

In addition, on tour day all the local churches will be asked to open their doors to visitors who wish to view the interiors and talk to church historians.

Tour committee chairman Pamela McLean is looking for residents who can lend a hand the day of the tour. She can be reached at 878-7678.

Choose new fair queen at dance this Saturday

Who will be the Queen of Milton Fall Fair this year?

The new Queen will be crowned at a dance in the Milton Optimist Centre this Saturday evening.

Organizers report they have several entrants now, but more would be welcome. You can still register for the competition by calling Ruth Bousfield at 878-7462 or Hazel Reid at 877-8429 by Friday of this week.

Entrants must be Canadian residents for two years and a resident of the Milton district for six months, aged 18 to 23, single, and of good character. Poise, personality and charm will be judged.

Only those attending Milton high school; or served by the Milton, Acton, Georgetown, Campbellville or Hornby mail routes; or participating in any 4-H club work in Halton are eligible to enter. Previous winners are not eligible.

They must give a short speech (under two minutes long) and appear at a private interview.

There's a host of 35 prizes available for the winner, organizers said. About 20 local stores have donated merchandise for the winner.

The dance is $5 per person and includes a late buffet. It is open to all.

During the fall fair, a Princess will be chosen to accompany the Queen. This contest is open only to members of the 4-H homemaking clubs in Halton, and they must be 12 to 17 years and have completed the last two 4-H projects.

The Princess will be chosen on the number of points accumulated in entries at the fair. They must compete in at least three classes of four offered — a macrame plant hanger, an article of macrame other than a plant hanger, an individual size quiche, or a small portion "Chicken with Chinese accent."

Entry forms must be sent by Sept. 19 to either Mrs. Reid at RR 2 Georgetown or Mrs. Bousfield at RR 4 Milton.

Princess and Queen. The 1980 Milton Fall Princess was Patti Haist, 16, of Hornby while the Queen was Elaine White, 19, of Campbellville (right). The new Queen will be named this Saturday at a dance in the Optimist Centre and the Princess will be chosen at the fall fair Sept. 25-27.

Violators unnamed

Companies pumping "unacceptable" waste into Halton's sanitary sewer system will be spared the pain of publicity for a little while longer.

Members of the region's planning and public works committee decided last week to continue to keep the names of such companies secret—for now at least.

Under a program started by the region, industries which produce wastes high in heavy metals have been given regional help to clean up their operations.

As long as they have been co-operating with regional staff their names have not been made public.

At the committee meeting, Councillor Bill Johnson (Milton) wondered why the region was policing these industries at all when they were breaking provincial laws by adding to water pollution.

Vic Lesnic, in charge of Halton's waste disposal system said the only authority under which such firms could be prosecuted was the regional bylaw covering water quality.

"The Ministry of the Environment doesn't even enter into this so far as to help us track down the industries. They stay right away from it," Mr. Lesnic told committee members. Chief Administrative Officer Dennis Perlin

NEC gives approvals

The Niagara Escarpment Commission has notified Milton Council of a number of approvals for building applications.

R. W. Harrington has received approval for a single family dwelling and barn.

C. Birch has received approval for a single family dwelling, access, sewage disposal system and shed.

The Ontario Jockey Club has received approval for an addition to an existing office building.

J. Williamson has received approval for a single dwelling.
