

Milton continues Terry's marathon

By Linda Kirby
Terry Fox's Marathon of Hope dream sprang alive on city streets Sunday afternoon, as thousands of Halton residents joined together to continue the run bravely started by the one-legged British Columbia man who died in June.

An estimated 250 Milton residents of every age, from tots in bicycle baskets to retired seniors, showed their support in a six-mile run through town streets.

The group included as many as 50 cyclists and many others walked the course.

Sports groups including the Milton Minor Baseball Association teams and members of the Milton Springers Gymnastic team were out in full force.

"We were pleased with the turnout," said event organizer Colin Best.

"It was a bit warm for most people," he said, adding officials had hoped for about 300 participants.

The run which was started at Milton District High School by Mayor Gord Krantz, is expected to raise as much as $10,000.

"It is still hard to say how much money will be received," said Mr. Best.

"We have one man who has raised $600 on his own, while the average seems to be about $50 per person."

Approximately 325,000 Canadians ran in honor of Terry Fox to raise an estimated $5 million for cancer research.

According to officials of the national committee looking after the run, Ontario individuals will likely raise $2 million alone.

There were more than 236 Ontario run sites where more than 40,000 persons ran.

An army of volunteers numbering about 30,000 were stationed at points across the country.

The Canadian Armed Forces personnel at 29 bases ran in honor of Terry, as did the Canadian ski team in Australia and Switzerland.

That's refreshing! Twelve-year-old Clyde Whidden of Milton kept a cool head while running in the Terry Fox Memorial Run Sunday afternoon. Volunteers staffed two water stops along the six-mile route.

Maplehurst inmates raise $600 for Fox

Four Maplehurst inmates who ran Sunday afternoon along with several thousand other Halton residents in memory of Terry Fox, are expected to raise $600 according to Maplehurst officials.

"They were highly successful and all finished the 10 kilometre run," said Iain Leithead, deputy superintendent.

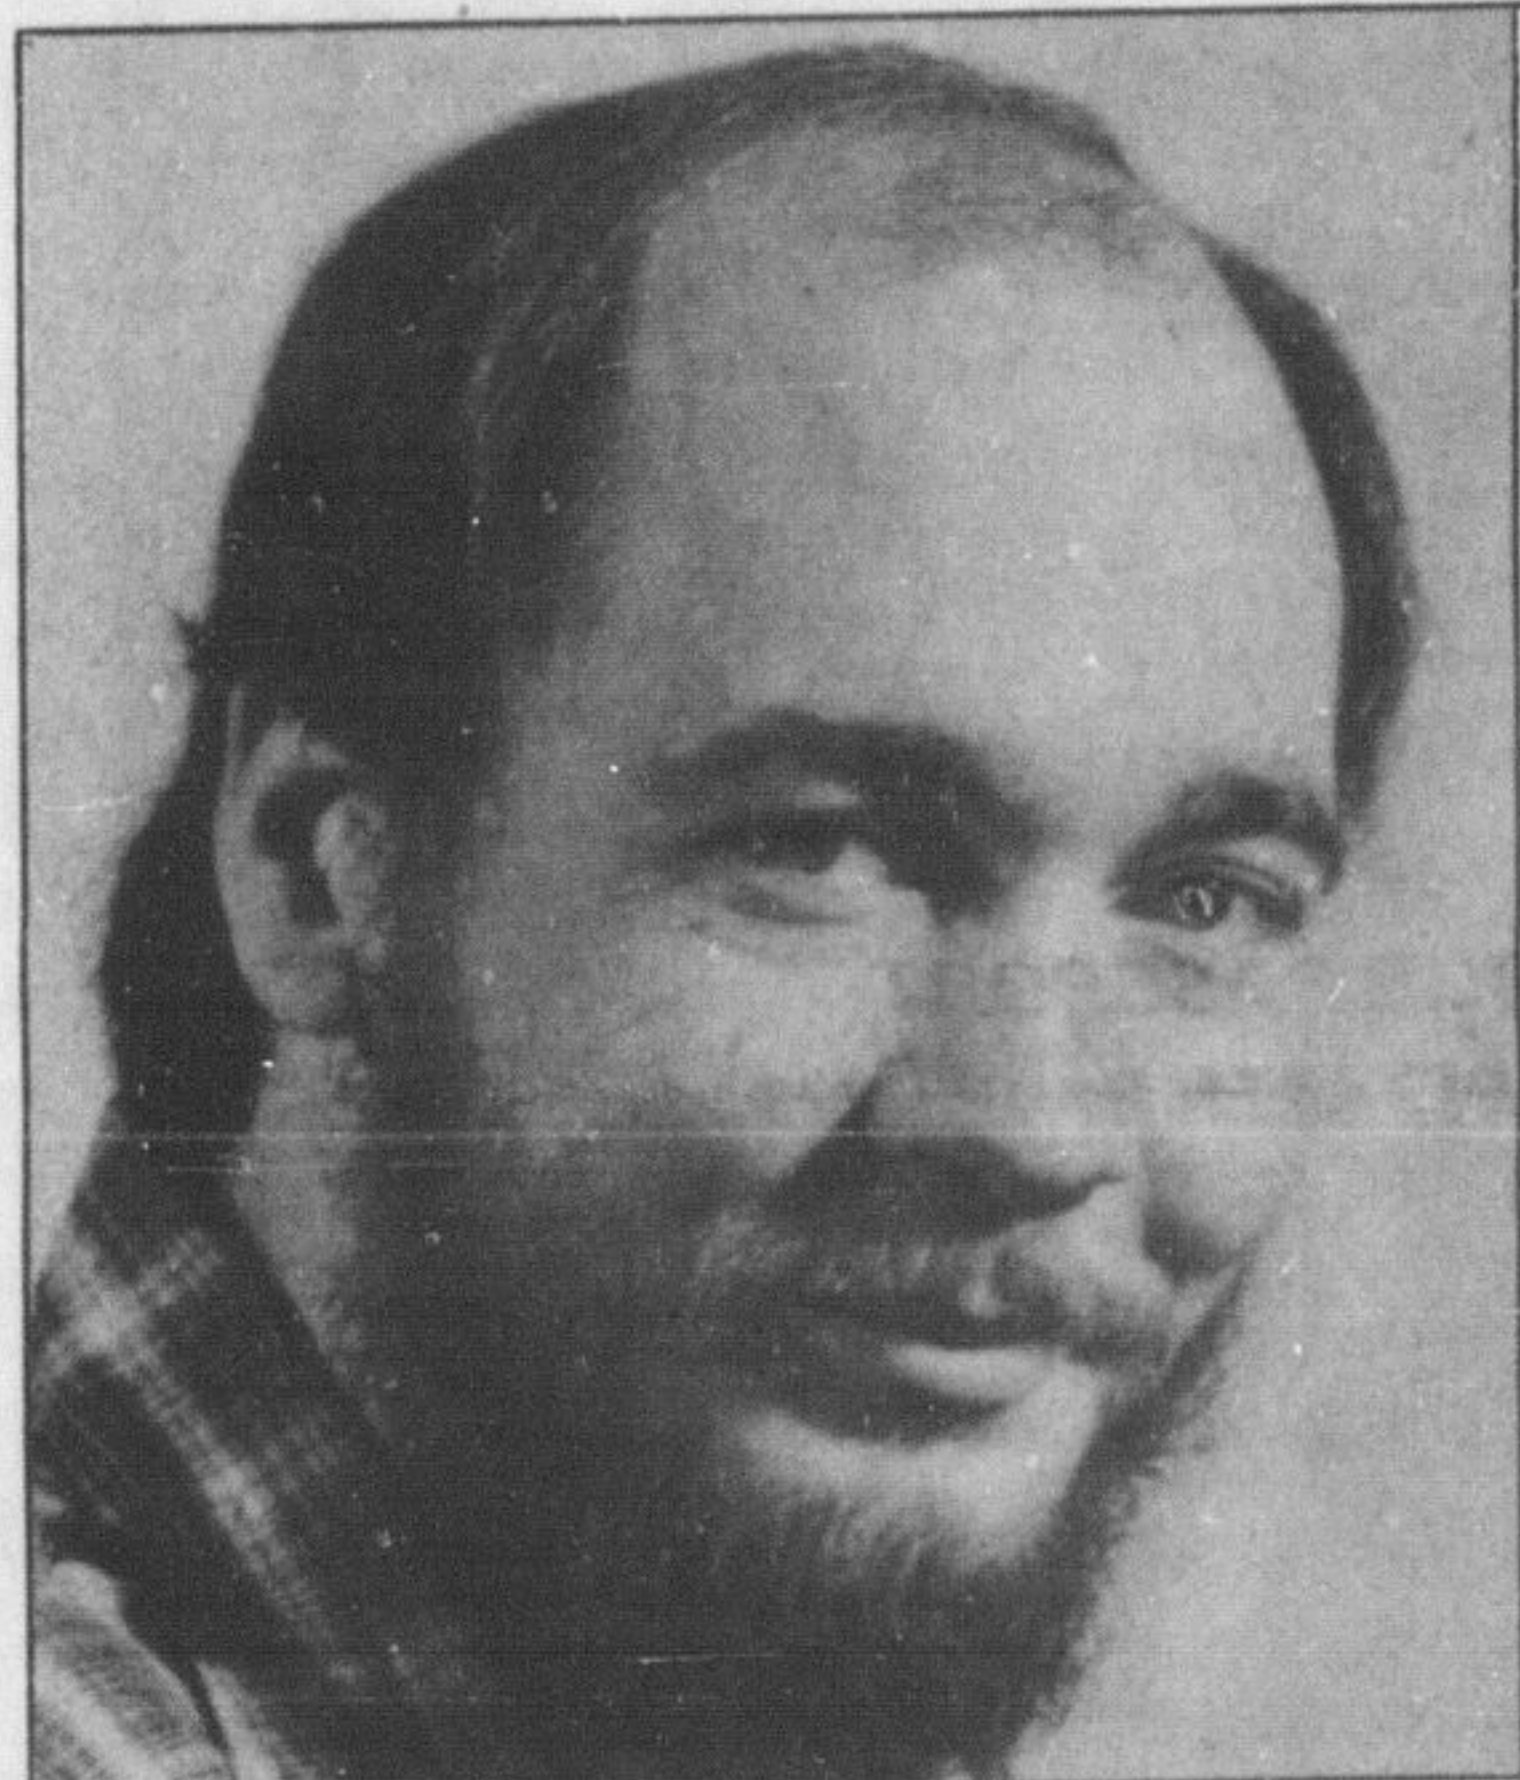

The four men joined an estimated 250 in Burlington to run the course.

The idea to include the men in the run was that of Bill Arbutnot, a recreation officer at Maplehurst, who thought the charity run would be a suitable occasion for the Ministry of Correctional Services to offer support.

"They figure they have raised about $600," said Mr. Leithead.

"That is a fairly sizeable sum, when you figure that is about $1.50 for every inmate here," he added.

Determination. That was the name of the game for more than 300 enthusiastic walkers and runners who took part in a 10-kilometre run in memory of Terry Fox. Run organizers are still unsure of how much money was raised Sunday.
