

SHORT COURSES OPENED ON TUESDAY MORNING

(Burlington Gazette) The auditorium of the Burlington high school was the scene of a very impressive opening on Tuesday morning...

The initial enrollment of 59 girls and 42 boys has left them in charge with a feeling of satisfaction. If this level is maintained throughout the duration of the courses, full capacity classes will be in attendance...

Widening of No. 2 Highway Has Started in Halton

Four men started preliminary work on the widening of the lake-shore highway three miles west of Oakville on John Wilson's farm on Monday.

Reunion of Kitties Concert Band

A rather unique and certainly very interesting event took place at the Prince George Hotel, Toronto, recently, it being the 22nd anniversary of the ex-members of the Kitties Concert Band.

LOWVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gundy were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Blesinger, Burlington.

OMAGH

An epidemic of mumps in the neighborhood of Omagh N.S. No. 6 is causing acute discomfort to many families in this district.

Will Draw Lots to Decide Term

With only an election for school trustees in sight in Acton the members of the board got together and two of the nominees, C. E. Brown and F. E. McCleary, withdrew their names and the four vacancies on the board were filled by balloting and the expense of an election will be saved.

In MEMORIAM Hamilton—In loving memory of James Edwin Hamilton, beloved husband of Annie Patterson, who passed away Nov. 17th, 1931.

Flying Squirrel Depends on His Skin Parachute

One of the most fascinating yet most unattractive creatures is the flying squirrel—a brave little fellow no bigger than a man's hand who volplanes to earth from heights of 50 feet, and does it softly and silently, without seeming to take any chances with his life at all.

The reason that the flying squirrel seldom seen is that he is a creature of the dark. In the daytime, he hides away in his nest inside a hollow tree, but as soon as the sun begins to sink, he steals out into the open.

As a matter of fact, this squirrel does not really fly, but he depends upon the membrane between his front and hind legs to act like a parachute, and slow up his descent.

Getting Tanned Simply Aiding the Pigmentation

What we call "getting tanned" is simply a building up of the pigmentation of the skin as a protection against over-exposure. We all are familiar with the way sunlight penetrates a transparent object, but finds difficulty in getting through a dark, opaque substance.

Silver of Astronomical Mirror

The silver of an astronomical mirror is always on the outer or front surface and not on the back as in a household looking glass. The light used by the observer is reflected from the silver or itself, and does not pass through the glass of the mirror.

Drumquinn

A present we are enjoying milder weather. May it continue. A number from about here spent an enjoyable and social time with the Young People's Society in Munn's Church on Monday night.

COMMUNICATION

Kincaid, Sask., Oct. 26th, 1933. To The Editor, Dear Sir—

I had an experience to-day that I would like to share with your readers. I was in the hope that I might reproduce and share this experience with those who are in desperate need in the "Dried Out Area."

The house was meagrely furnished but clean. The bedclothes were thin and very much worn. There were six pieces of broken glass in the window, and the wind came in from the north.

As a matter of fact, this squirrel does not really fly, but he depends upon the membrane between his front and hind legs to act like a parachute, and slow up his descent. While the true squirrels may always be seen abroad in the sunshine, the flying squirrel behaves just the opposite.

AWAY DOWN EAST NEAR HORNBY

If you were down east near Hornby, in old Ontario, In the early days when I was raised many years ago, And often in the winter I sat on the winnowing floor...

And watched the farmers drawing logs down to Irvine's mill. For they chopped and sawing and splitting and hauled. And I sat on the winnowing floor, beneath the mill, Beside the seventh line.

That little place called Hornby, where the farmers used to meet, And boast about their cradling and the binding of the wheat.

Down by the old mill stream I wandered and played around the dam, And laughed and joked with the Hornby boys—they called them Tom and Ben.

And go and bring the cattle home that pastured in the flats, And put them in the old mill yard and close the gates and gaps.

And in the fall time of the year They had their "sing bees. They wore their dresses long, down below their knees, The men wore suits of homemade cloth, moustaches and goatees.

And on the fun they used to have while they were dancing. For the laddies loved their lasses And lasses loved their lads, They would gather round the table And play old forty fives.

You'd see that old musician And play them on his chest, And play them "Swing the Willow," To the "Oo Coo's Nest."

Old granny by the fire at knitting of sock, And says: "Oh, dad, what is he playing, It make my body rock?"

Oh, can't you hold your tongue awee, I can scarcely hear my ears, The tune that he's just finished now In the British Grenadiers.

You gang and get your slippers on And I will do the same, We'll show the young folk here to night How to dance the Highland Fling.

So on the floor they step it out, They make a grand salute, Old granny snaps her fingers, And says: "The sun, They step it like they step it low; They dance it twa' the tune, They made a bow when they got up And one when they set down.

The young folks started clapping And they shouted out encore. But granny she got out of puff And could na' dance no more.

They played the Flowers of Edinburgh, They were out in bloom, And the wind that shook the barley field And the "Auld Lang Syne."

And then towards the morning They would join their hands and sing "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot And Never Brought to Mind."

But I'll no' forget the night we spent Beside the old base line.

But in the churchyard down at Hornby They're buried beneath the sun, My uncle and my aunt, And my cousins, Bob and John, And if ever I do get the chance I'll call for my myself Was at the paring line.

Govan, Sask. IBAC WILSON.

Cows are said to be creating a nuisance on the outskirts of Milton. "When the Moon" Comes over the Mountain?

So cars are to be equipped with mechanical horns. And won't it be fun to see one of them getting down on the same to get a truck not to hog the highway.

Isn't it strange how rapidly Russia has been dropped as the "big bad wolf" of Europe now that Germany, under rather better dictatorship, has begun to assert herself?
