PRESENTATION.

Mark Bussel was the youngest surviving son of the Bussel pioneer family. Their farm was lot 8, ninth line, Trafalgar Twp.

Annie Anderson was the youngest daughter of the Anderson pioneer family. Their farm was lot 7 on the ninth line. Mark and Annie were married the year 1911. They settled on lot 6, ninth line. They made extensive improvements, building a large bank barn, silo, a large hen house, hog pen, and an addition to their dwelling house. The lawn is surrounded by beautiful shade trees, making it an ideal farm home. Their family, two girls and a boy, got their early education at the school on the corner of their farm, S.S. No. 8. At an early age they attended Milton High School. At the present time Margaret is a stenographer in Mr. Ramsnow's office, Milton. John is at home on the farm and is well satisfied with farm life. Just the right sort of a home is needed on a farm at the present time. Isabel felt the lure of the nursing profession calling to her and is answering the call.

Mrs. Sol Cordingley, her nearest neighbor, her two companions at the high school, Doris Sanford and Margaret Hamilton, knew that all Isabel's companions and neighbors would like to give her a good send off so got busy at first being only intended to call on the section, but when they were met with such generous response, they were tempted to beyond their boundary line. And on Sept. 9th the night before leaving home they had complete arrangements for a farewell meeting at the Bussel home. The night came at last, for all nights will come. And what a jolly gathering of all ages arrived as if by magic at the two entrances to the farm house. On No. 10 side road twenty-five cars entered. On the 9th line twenty-five entered at the same time, when they came together at the house the cheerful sound of car whistles was heard for about five minutes, and these were the words the whistles seemed to say. This scene will live in memory, as time ever on war goes.

And will always carry fragrance, like fragrance of the rose.

All your friends tonight rejoicing will be friends in time of need. For they give you love and honor in each thought, and word, and deed. So I write this humble tribute, though it needs a mightier pen.

And hope when you make new friends you'll not forget your old ones then.

About two hours were spent in games. The winners in Euchre, eight tables were 1st prize, Frank Chisholm, Earl Saunders, and Ed. Hamilton. Ladies, Mrs. Carl Sanders 1st prize and lone hand C. Crokinole, 4 tables, Mrs. Allie May 1st prize, Ken Orr, 2nd. Mrs. V. Hall lucky number. About four sets of young, the boys and girls, were dancing by the light of the moon to the strains of an excellent musician on the mouth organ. Then an excellent lunch of coffee, sandwiches and cake was served. After which an address was read by Miss Doris Sanford, and the presentation made by Miss Margaret Hamilton and J. J. Cordingley. Mrs. Cordingley, chair lady. Isabel in a few well chosen words, thanked all for the beautiful gift and for all the kindness from neighbors and school mates all through her life. Mr. Bussel also thanked all on behalf of himself and wife. "Thank all joined hands and sang 'For she's a jolly good fellow' and three hearty cheers.

THE ADDRESS

MISS ISABELL BUSSEL:

Our dear friend and companion. We know for some time you felt like a bird in a cage. That the profession you have chosen has been becoming to you for a long time.

We admire your courage in going away from family and home and the life to which you are accustomed to a life that demands energy and decision, but has hidden within it satisfactions unknown to the gentle and peaceful existence in surroundings of ease. And we join with you dear friend, in thanks to the Giver of all good and perfect gifts that you have all the gifts for an ideal nurse—a perfect figure, health and strength, and a cheerful, loving and kind disposition, which made you a favorite wherever you went.

The memory of home and friends will often give you what is called homesickness, but always keep this in a corner of your remembrance—that just as often as you think of home and friends they are thinking of you, for the absent ones hold the most enviable place in every family.

We often picture the absent one surrounded by snares and threaten'd with dangers. What a magnifying of our own power, our want of confidence in God's. We are not makers of fate of those around us—another power than ours governs life, and it is the same power everywhere, where our loved ones go, or where they stay. And far or near, wherever the absent ones go a voice keeps floating through the air reminding them of Mother's prayer.

We ask you, dear Isabel, to accept this travelling bag, as a token of love to remind you of the happy days you have spent with you on the dear old Ninth Line, the home of your youth.

And we all join in wishing you a long, prosperous, happy life in your chosen calling, ministering to the sick and dying.

We know you will be a real follower of Florence Nightingale and Evangeline, and there will be many stars in your crown.

Signed on behalf of neighbors and companions,

MRS. SOL CORDINGLEY
DORIS SANFORD
MARGARET HAMILTON

WEDDINGS

SPICER-GUNBY

The United Church, Lowville, was the scene of a most beautiful Saturday afternoon last, when Lenora May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gunby, Millgrove, became the bride of Henry Siddall, only son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Kelly, Hamilton. The Rev. G. F. Kelly officiated. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Max Taylor, sister of the bride. The bride was charmingly gowned in white satin, fashioned on long princess lines with full sleeves to the elbow and a long cuff ending in a point over the hand. Her long veil of tulle was pleated at the back of the head and held in place by triple bands of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of capture roses with bouquets of white and gold of the valley. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Erland Colling, as matron of honor, gowned in yellow triple sheer crepe with brown accessories and carrying a bouquet of Talisman roses; also Mrs. Gordon Sutton, cousin of the groom, who wore a white dress with brown accessories, and Mrs. Bert Johnston. During the signing of the register Mr. Norman Goddard rendered "Love You Truly" as a violin solo. After the ceremony a reception was held at "Forest Hill," home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother had chosen brown transparent velvet trimmed with gold and brown accessories, with a corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother wore wine crepe and velvet with wine hat and grey accessories, with a corsage of Talisman roses. The groom wore a three-piece suit and the groom led a three-wheeled trip to the western coast. The bride travelled in a coral crepe dress trimmed with brown quilted tulle and a brown tweed coat with cross-fox collar, with brown accessories. On their return they will reside in Hamilton.

Paint Prices Sharply Reduced

A sharp reduction in the price of first quality house paint to $3.75 per gallon is announced by the manufacturer of Canada's best known brands of paint, the reduction to take place immediately.

In making the announcement, the companies concerned state that the reduction is justified by any change in market conditions or manufacturing costs. They point out, however, that during the past few years many householders have been misled by "bargain" prices into using inferior paint with results that resulted unfavorably on the whole industry. Drastic action was felt to be necessary to check a situation that seriously threatened property value all over the country.

The new low price is designed to make it easier for property owners to use first quality paint only, with resulting benefit to property and to the community in general.

The companies announcing the reduction are Canada Paint, International and Martin-Senour and Sherwin-Williams.

Newspapers make mistakes sometimes, alright, but it remains for a current directory to spell Orangeville "Orangeville!"

The demand for houses in Oakville seems to be high at the present time and prospective residents are experiencing some trouble in finding suitable houses and apartments.—Oakville Star.

According to Hon. C. H. Cahon, Thanksgiving Day is being changed to Thursday because it was otherwise becoming "a holiday excursion" and "frivolous entertainments." But no ministry can change the habits of people by compulsion. People can be inconvenienced by having a week-end holiday changed to a weekday, but they will not stay at home and meditate just because the government tells them to do so.

CLEARING THE HIGHWAYS.—Determined to smash alleged violation of Ontario's motor vehicle and trucking laws, Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, is now employing special investigators and prosecutors to aid the regular departmental staff in the run-down of motor vehicle excursions. The 500 prosecutions of various types have been launched during the past month in an undercover drive by a single investigator, and 70 of those prosecutions resulted from one night's investigations in the vicinity of Hamilton and eastward toward Toronto. "The laws are going to be enforced on our highways," declared Mr. McQuesten recently. "And motorists who have been deliberately breaking them had better realize it at once."

Smooth Air Work

By JACK MITCHELL.

"BASHFUL BEN" MAYFIELD determined for the hundredth time to tell Wilma that he loved her. Furthermore, with an increased salary clinched, he'd ask her to marry him. Bravely he stopped from the stair that a tall bronzed figure quite handsome in a tuxedo. He tagged the beautiful blond Wilma.

"Wilma, I've something to tell you," he blurted.

"A confession, Don Juan?" Wilma asked.

"Bashful Ben's" heart sank and his confidence vanished. This same thing had happened many times before.

"No—no," he stammered. "I want to tell you that I—I have some more old clothes for the Junior League shop."

Wilma rested her head against his shoulder. He hoped she wasn't repressing a snicker. "Thanks, Ben. We need them. You'd be surprised at the people who are destitute."

Ben continued dancing without conversation but creditably.

"Killy Hawk" Identifies Slate, Rust-Colored Hawk

It takes boys to name—or nickname—frankly enough to describe a creature so one may easily recognize it; hence, the name "killy hawk." This small, slate and rust colored hawk, somewhat like a falcon or small parrot in shape, may be heard calling "killy, killy, kill-ee!" when alarmed or hunting. So, the name killy hawk often identifies the sparrow hawk most readily.

The killy hawk, says a writer in the Indianapolis News, will be seen perched on the tops of fence posts and telephone poles along highways and byways. She will often fly for a mile or so ahead of a slowly moving automobile, alighting on a pole a little ahead of the car each time until the car draws very near her perch.

She is a friendly little hawk, often seen about the farm home. Very graceful, the killy hawk will hover over a spot in an open field, wings beating steadily. If she spies the mouse or grasshopper whose movement she first glimpsed as she made a short flight from her lookout point, she will dart down and seize it in her sharp talons. Then she will carry her prey away to some favorite perch to devour.

She is a valuable little hawk, because she eats so many mice and grasshoppers, and an occasional English sparrow. Her vice is that she will prey on valuable small birds when other food is not to be found.

Amsterdam on 90 Islands; Has Hundreds of Bridges

It is difficult to imagine why anyone should have selected the present site of Amsterdam for a metropolis. In the beginning the dam on which Quesrecht II, Lord of Amstel, built his castle, was a dike almost entirely surrounded by gray ooze stashed with tidal rivulets.

Now Amsterdam stands on 90 islands, connected by about 300 bridges and separated by innumerable canals which are landscaped and regulated with all the exquisite perfection of the waterways of exhibition grounds.

Along these canals, except the most strictly commercial thoroughfares, are rows of linden trees with branches bending down so far as to sometimes wash the still surface of the water.

The buildings of Amsterdam are of two distinct sorts: the old—none of which seems to have been troubled by carpenter or mason in at least 300 years—and the new.

Next to ancient houses with "step" gables topped by a stork's nest of tangled twigs stand extremely modernistic structures in the building of which Holland has been a pioneer.

A NEW DEAL

Something for nothing! Can it be done? Apparently Albert Hart of Alberta and a vast majority of the electors of the prairie province seem to think so—or at least are willing to give it a trial. The Liberal Credit Party, led by Albert Hart, almost swept the province in the recent election and it will be interesting to see whether or not the pre-election promises can be fulfilled. We are "from Missouri."
