 Some discussion took place recently—one—as to the difference in time between Toronto and London, England. The difference is five hours. When it is high noon in Toronto it is five o'clock in the afternoon in London. But it was not always so.
 An enterprising hotel proprietor in Listowel believes in making his guests feel at home. On certain nights of the week doughnuts and coffee are served to all guests in the lounge room at 10 o'clock. It is a treat on the hotel, and apparently the way travellers talk on the road, it treats the hotel well too.

 The exceptionally high standing of senior fourth grade girls at the Bowmanville public school in geography, a subject in which they were usually weak, led to an investigation by Miss Marjorie Colquhoun, their teacher, and a voluntary confession by 40 of the girls they had copied during the examination, Cecil Dudley, school-board secretary said last Saturday.
 A newly married couple had just left their parents and had come into a home of their own. A few weeks afterward the husband lost a button off his shirt, and asked his wife to sew one on. Later, he found that she had not sewn on the button, so he decided that he would remind her. He got the lid of the boot-polish tin, bored two holes in it, and sewed that on the shirt. When he came to put the shirt on again he found, to his amazement, that his wife had made a buttonhole big enough to fit the lid.

Sherwin-Williams Company Make Appointment
 Montreal, March 30.—The appointment of Charles W. Baker, well-known Montreal sales executive, as General Sales Manager of the Sherwin-Williams Company of Canada, Limited, was announced today by D. A. Whittaker, Vice-President and Managing Director of the company.
 Mr. Baker's promotion has been rapid. He entered the company in 1917 as a junior in the Sales Department, advancing through various positions to the post of chief clerk. In 1929 he was appointed Advertising Manager, and in 1931 was again promoted to Vice-President and Managing Director.
 Mr. Baker will have charge of all sales activities and development plans. He is president of the Advertising Club of Montreal.

Several readings were given by members of the society. Carl Turner rendered a violin solo, and a solo by Bernice Armstrong. The singing closed by singing a hymn. Mr. Andrew pronounced benediction. A special social evening will be held on Friday, April 24th.
Scotch Block Women's Institute
 On Friday, March 27th, the losing side of a copper contest of the Scotch Block W.I. held a birthday tea at the home of Mrs. L. Chisholm. The program consisted of community songs, group games, contests, solos, and a paper on "Pioneer Days in Essex" by Miss J. Elliott. A delightful lunch was served after which Mrs. J. Elliott read a farewell address to Mrs. J. Jones who leaves shortly for England and Mrs. S. Brown presented her with a silver plate. Mrs. Jones, although taken by surprise, very fittingly thanked the members. The singing of a hymn brought a very enjoyable afternoon to a close.

Barbers' Group Bill is Killed
 Legislation designed to compel all barbers and hairdressers to belong to an association was thrown out on Thursday last by the Ontario Legislature. A special sub-committee of the second successive year. Three different organizations applied for the exclusive right to control the trade, and three separate bills were before committee. A special sub-committee, which A. Belanger (Liberal President) was chairman, reported against adoption of any of the bills. The three organizations, Mr. Belanger said, "remain irreducibly apart" and there seemed no prospect of getting them to unite.

Too Many Crooks
 By HAL G. VERMES

 YOU would think that Beezer Bertie would be shaking out of his shoes because he stood to lose twenty-five grand. And while very much money don't sound like so very much money unless you stutter, it is a terrific amount when it is all you have got. Which is the way it was with Bertie.
 "What about this Pete Popper," I ask, "who had had four wins out of six starts this season already?"
 "We do not have to worry about that," says Bertie, "and we do not have to wet our hair about Passerby Last Laugh, or any of them. My Sweet Sugar already has this handicap won for sure!"
 "But," Mudder McMork states, "in every race there is always a couple of bats."
 "And also besides," Harry the Pinhead adds, "some ifs and maybes."
 "Otherwise," I point out, "we would be retired millionaires long ago."
 "Sure," agrees Bertie, "and of course, the reason for which being that, like with a lot of other things, there are too many people looking for easy money."
 This is indeed very true, like anybody knows. Nowadays with good racing commissions on the job there is very little fixing of races. But ten years ago, when Bertie enters Sweet Sugar for the Hudson Handicap, a crooked race still occurs much too frequently.
 "Which is why we are worried," says Bertie, "because if I win I will not let her out of my sight all day and two of you clucks are going to stand guard in her stable every night."
 And that is the way we do. Mudder and the stable boy watch one night and Harry and I are the next. Bertie and Harry get up a couple of times and comes over to make sure we are not asleep.
 The first three nights nothing happens and we are thinking that everything is going to be okay. But we guess all wrong, which we find out the next night when four plugs beat down on Harry and me about 3 a. m.
 We sure have a hot time there in the dark with the gangsters' blackjacks and a couple of knives they are using very careless. And this would be a different story had not Bertie come around for a look-see just then and ploved into the fight. Harry, being an ex-jockey, is only a shrimp and I am by no means a giant myself. But Bertie weighs 210 with his hands in his pockets, which is at that moment something to be thankful for. So while Harry is biting the ear of one plug and I am tied up in a knot with the other two and does a very neat job of it, indeed.
 While we now do not expect to have any more trouble, we still has our worries because Mudder is suddenly nowhere to be found. But we cannot pay too much attention to that because we have first got to horse to take care of. And we are glad when at last it is racing day and Sweet Sugar is still razor sharp and a sure thing, according to our ideas, to win.
 We sit in the grandstand and watch Bertie's entry get off to a beautiful start in the Hudson Handicap. We are happy because we figure we are now going to collect for all our troubles. But then it is when Mudder finally shows up and spoils everything.
 "The jockey on Sweet Sugar," Mudder shouts, "has sold out to the punters and he is going to lose the race! I find this out four days ago but I am caught and the gang holds me till now so I cannot tip you off until it is too late!"
 "I am not worried at all," says Bertie, still holding his field glasses steady on the pack as they go into the back stretch.
 "But the jockey is going to throw the race!" Mudder yells.
 "I am not worried," Bertie insists.
 "The jock has got the double wraps on the reins!" I shout, looking through my glasses. "He is sawing like mad at the horse's mouth!"
 "And tomorrow," says Harry very sadly, "we will be as penniless as a blind man without a tin cup."
 "Still an all," Bertie calmly repeats, "I am not worried."
 We are very excited except for Bertie, who is watching the heat close and saying no more. When the field comes around the last turn, Sweet Sugar is back in fourth position. But on the home stretch she takes the bit in her teeth and shoots straight for the wire. Nothing in stop her, not even the crooked jock who fights to hold her back. Flying past the other hiders, she flashes by the one in the lead, and Sweet Sugar wins!
 We are so surprised that we practically pass out with relief. And while we lay back in our chairs and tries to get our breath Bertie, who is cool as a pickle just out of the brine, looks down at us and laughs.
 "How is this," squawks Harry, "that though you stood to lose everything plus when Mudder informs us that your jock has sold out to the crooks, you do not worry at all and still are sure that Sweet Sugar will win?"
 "That is simply because while you can never tell about a human being," says Bertie, "a horse, you see, is always honest!"

Two of the most democratic societies in the world, whose membership includes a former king and queen, famous statesmen, and common folk, all on an equal footing, are the Sky-Line Trail Hikers and Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, whose annual outings this year promise something new in the way of scenery and energetic healthy recreation.
 The Trail Riders, whose five-day trip starts from the Banff Springs Hotel on July 31, will tour a section of the Park which was chosen by Major P. J. Jennings, superintendent of Banff National Park, for the interesting variety it offers. The centre of activities for the Sky-Line Trail Hikers, from August 7 to 10, will be Lake O'Hara, probably the most beautiful spot in the Rockies. In both cases there is excellent fishing in swift-running mountain streams, and unlimited opportunities for the camera enthusiast.
 The Trail Ride actually begins about four miles from Banff, winds its way between Mount Edith and Mount Norquay, follows Porterville Creek east of the Sawback Range, passes over Badger Pass, follows Johnston Creek down to the foot of the spectacular canyon of the same name, and ends up near the highway where there is an ideal spot for the "Pow" Wow and Sing-Song that concludes every Trail Ride outing. It provides five care-free days with fine open Alpine meadows, high passes, good timber, and lakes and streams of great beauty.
 Plans for the Sky-Line Trail Hike make provision for one central camp at Lake O'Hara. This will avoid changing camp every night as has been done in the past and will reduce the cost of the outing considerably. From Lake O'Hara the hikers will make forays of adventure over the Ross Lake trail to Lake Louise; through the Narrows Lake district; along spectacular Cataract Creek to the lumpy beauty of Lake McArthur and along the McArthur creek trail; and southeast through the valleys of lofty Mounts Yukness, Humabee, and Wenchemna.
