

Need a job?

Milton-area employers can hire students this summer through a federal program which helps subsidize wages.

The SEED co-ordinator for this area, Sharon Jenkins, said employers wanting to take part in the $35-million program should hurry. The deadline for applications is March 8.

Employers must be in the private sector and be prepared to offer employment from 6-18 weeks. The subsidy is 50 per cent of wages up to $3/hr. maximum. There are no benefits or operating-cost subsidies.

Municipalities and educational institutions offer subsidies of up to $4/hr. without benefits or operating subsidies. Non-profit organizations get wage subsidies of up to a maximum of $4/hr. There is 100 per cent benefits subsidy plus operating costs of $20/work week.

Application forms are available at the CEC office at 310 Main St., Milton.

Bruce Dolson leaves Magna

Bruce Dolson, former president of the Milton operation of Rockwell International and chairman of the recent Milton District Hospital Fund Campaign, has started a new job with a Brampton firm.

Mr. Dolson, who joined the Milton operations of Magna International, confirmed Monday he had taken a vice-presidency with SKD Automotive, a maker of steel frames and auto parts. The firm is located in Brampton.

Mr. Dolson said the position resulted after National Steel Corporation purchased Continental Can Company. One of the divisions is SKD.

He said he would continue to reside in Milton.

E.C. Drury's Nancy Hart was the third runner-up in the Miss Deaf Ontario pageant recently. She said she intends to continue competing.

Drury student places at Pageant

A student at E.C. Drury School for the Hearing Handicapped copped third runner-up position in the Miss Deaf Ontario Pageant recently.

Nancy Hart, 19, and a Grade 12 student at the school, impressed the judges with a poem she wrote about how the deaf hear music. "We can understand music," she said. "We can see it with our eyes and can feel the vibrations."

There were eight girls entered in the pageant, which was just one aspect of the Ontario Festival of Arts 1986. The day-long event was held at the Bob Rumball Centre for the Deaf in Toronto. It is a biannual tradition which allows deaf individuals an opportunity to showcase their talents in literature, and the performing, recreational, home and physical arts.

Nancy captured the Miss Deaf E.C. Drury title two years ago. Even then she had her eye on the Ontario crown. "I really enjoyed the competition," she said, "but I found it a real challenge. I was so nervous, but I think that I covered up really well."

The judges didn't notice her anxiety. She won Miss Congeniality and did well in the talent, evening gown, intelligence, and maturity and poise categories.

Nancy was forewarned that there would be six possible questions that she could be asked. They asked her what she would do if she won $1 million.

"I would donate it to deaf people so that they could start their own businesses," she answered.

The student, who is college-bound next year, may try again in two years to capture the Miss Deaf Ontario crown.

Separate high school for Milton starting in the fall

The Halton Separate School Board has voted unanimously to start building a high school in Milton by the fall.

The school will be designed to serve students from Milton, Acton, and Georgetown.

Two high schools already exist in the south of the the region. Loyola services Oakville and parts of Milton while Assumption, in Burlington, also takes students from Milton. Some Halton Hills students must attend separate high schools and Guelph and Brampton at the present time.
