

Kelly McPhee comes to a complete stop while learning the rules of the road at a bike rodeo at Martin St. School last week.

Among the tests in the bike rodeo was bike control through a series of pylons. Here, Mike Mendoza successfully negotiates the obstacles.

Kids' bike rodeo held at Martin St.

Students in Grades 3 through 5 at Martin Street School were taught the rules of the road Thursday.

Parents' night

Parents' Night will be held at E. C. Drury High School Tuesday from 6:15-9:30 p.m. Parents are invited to discuss students' progress in semester II program with subject teachers. Interview appointments may be made by calling the school at 878-0575.

Save the children

Milton's 7-Eleven food store will take part in the national campaign to raise funds during Save the Children Week, April 20-23. The chain will act as the national collection centre for the fund in Canada during that week. Save the Children Fund is a non-profit international organization established 65 years ago.

Milton's Safety Officer P.C. Tanya Grimmer visited that school and provided the children with a detailed bicycle safety instruction session. They were taught all the proper hand signals and road signs.

Students brought their bikes, which were inspected for any defective parts. Brakes were tested, tires were checked for pressure and bells, horns, and lights were screened to assure that they were in working order.

After that the students participated in a bike rodeo, which put their bike-riding abilities on the line. They were evaluated for balance and coordination, as they attempted to ride a straight course through two lines. Their riding skills were put to the test as they wound through a figure-8 course, and a zig-zag maze of pylons.

The students were required to ride to a mock intersection where they were marked for heeding a stop sign, and obeying the signals of a traffic light.

P.C. Grimmer will be visiting local schools in the next two months to provide all primary students with bike safety instruction.

Milton Safety Officer Tanya Grimmer grades the student cyclists during an instructional session at Martin St. School. The students were taught the proper rules of the road.
