

How It's Done

Sheep-shearer Len Hilderley held a variety of demonstrations of the time-worn art at the Ontario Agricultural Museum on the weekend. Here, he gets some help from Ken Layfield. Mr. Hilderley sheared about 10 sheep over the weekend and offered visitors a chance to shear some sheep as well. The demonstration was part of a Wonders of Wool feature on the weekend.

Friends join in marking 30 years for area priest

Serving the community through the church has been a delight for Rev. Bernard Warren for 30 years. Rev. Warren's service was recognized and appreciated by his peers and congregation Sunday.

Thoughtful words and song were heard in the Bezek Centre, set up by Rev. Warren and his wife, Doria, more than 16 years ago.

"The day was beautiful. There were more than 400 well-wishers there and all of the guest speakers we invited came," said Mrs. Warren.

Rev. Warren was ordained in 1956 and practised in the Alderwood United Church until 1989 when he and his wife moved to Milton to begin building the Bezek Centre.

The Centre is a place where all denominations are welcome to come for prayer or comfort. The idea has been very successful, Mrs. Warren said.

"Everyone is welcome to come to us for counselling or just to relax in a spiritual atmosphere," Mrs. Warren said.

Some of those who participated in the celebration were Rev. Ron Armstrong, an Anglican priest raised in Milton and now a part-time missionary in the West Indies, Rev. Dr. Bob Rumball of the Church of the Deaf, and long-time friend Rev. David Thompson from Kingston. The Alderwood Choir from Toronto also participated in the day's events.
