Former employees will get job assistance

Halton/Burlington MPP Don Knight said the Province can offer some assistance to the people in Acton who will lose their jobs when the giant Beardmore tannery closes in two months.

Mr. Knight said the Minister of Skills Development will meet with the union to discuss an industrial adjustment service. A representative from the Ministry of Trade and Development will sit on the committee. He said the Ministry of Labour has a Plant Closure Committee which has already put in motion a manpower adjustment committee. One of its functions will be to retrain laid-off workers.

Mr. Knight said that while the government will do all it can, he urged the people to set up a community advisory committee.

"It is a problem of the entire community," he said.
