

5197

110

What a Show

The crowds may have been smaller at Showcase '86 but it was still a hit. —4

Comic Craze

Heath Walton is crazy about comic books and has opened a store which sells them. —17

Sports

Campbellville Mohawks lost to Bloor Blue Jays by a score of 12-6 Sunday. —22

Police Blotter	8
Plant wired in	14
Auxiliary annual	18
Sports	22-24
Dateline	25
Classified Ads	28-31
Real Estate	RE1-RE8

TODAY'S QUOTE: Real difficulties can be overcome. It is only imaginary ones which are unconquerable.

The Canadian Champion

Wednesday edition A Metroland Community Newspaper serving the town of Milton

USED CARS >>>>

If you only keep adding little by little, it will soon become a big heap.

310 STEELES AVE. MILTON 876-4747

MILTON HONDA

VOLUME 1:9 — NUMBER 47 MILTON, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 1, 1988 30 CENTS 40 PAGES

How sweet it is

Lisa Sargent is surrounded by some of the sweet sights of summer at Chadleigh's Apple Farm. The staff member is showing off some of the best-riding plants available at the farm, located on Highway 25 north of Highway 401.

Nadalin jailed 'til appeal is heard

By MIKE BOYLE

Louis Nadalin will spend this summer in jail.

Mr. Nadalin, who just recently sold his 95-acre Appleby Line estate to Emmanuel Baptist Church, was remanded in custody last Thursday when his appeal trial was delayed by him until September. The three-member Ontario Court of Appeals denied him further bail.

As a result, Mr. Nadalin will no longer be free on bail and instead will spend his time until the Sept. 15 appeal hearing at Hamilton Detention Centre.

It marks the first time Mr. Nadalin has spent a night in jail as a result of a conviction four years ago. After he was sentenced on July 11, 1984, he spent four hours in jail while awaiting his bail hearing, which he won.

He, along with several others, were convicted as a result of an investigation into a $7.1-million vending machine scam which operated from 25 Steeles Ave., Milton, during 1980 and 1981. He was sentenced to four years in prison (Millhaven) but he successfully remained out on bail while appealing the decision.

However, Toronto crown attorney Bruce Duncan, who is handling the case, said there's an obligation on the part of Mr. Nadalin to proceed with due diligence. Mr. Duncan said he felt Mr. Nadalin wasn't proceeding with proper speed and the Court of Appeals agreed with him.

Mr. Duncan said it would be considered "outrageous" for a person to seek a bail hearing after being denied bail by the Court of Appeals.

It'll be more than four years from the time Mr. Nadalin was first convicted, to his first appeal of that decision.

Rev. Ken Campbell, of Emmanuel Baptist Church, has come to Mr. Nadalin's aid and visited him in the Hamilton jail last weekend.

In a letter to William Parker, Mr. Nadalin's lawyer, Mr. Campbell said the church's congregation had adopted two motions to show Mr. Nadalin's contribution to the church. The motions were adopted four days prior to Mr. Nadalin's appeal on Thursday.

The first motion effectively appointed Mr. Nadalin as the director of property planning and overseer of maintenance of the church's grounds.

The second motion asks the court to release Mr. Nadalin for community service in the event of a judgment against him.