

Halton trustee puzzled over close race

The race for public school board trustees in Ward 2 was closer than incumbent Bill Harrison thought it would be.

Mr. Harrison, who has served as a trustee with the Halton Board for the past six years, narrowly defeated Milton mother Jennifer Willoughby. Mr. Harrison received 1,974 votes to Mrs. Willoughby's 1,512. "I was expecting to win," said Mr. Harrison. "I was surprised that it was that close, because she (Jennifer) did not appear to be running a campaign. I didn't see any of her signs."

He is puzzled by her success, and isn't sure how to interpret the closeness of the race.

Mr. Harrison tackled this campaign as he had in the past. He and his family canvassed the neighbourhoods.

"I found there weren't that many local concerns. But several times people talked about funding and asked why a board would open a new high school and have it only half full (Bishop Reding)."

He says it will be right back to business at the Burlington board of office.

"Accommodation will be our biggest concern. We could comfortably open four new elementary schools in the south tomorrow."

"Locally we have allocated $4 million to refurbish Milton District High School in 1990. It is essential that is accomplished."

Jennifer Willoughby gave Bill Harrison a run for his Ward 2 public school board seat in what Mr. Harrison admitted was a surprisingly strong showing by his challenger. It was her second attempt to topple Mr. Harrison.
