

Local artists donate a variety of pieces to Gala Art Auction

A Gala Art Auction will feature noted local artists on Friday Nov. 18 at Holy Rosary Parish Hall. The auction is being organized by the YMCA and the Canadian Federation of University Women (CFUW) of Milton and District in conjunction with Beaux International.

The artwork of the participating artists will be donated outright.

Milton resident Steve Warren attended the Ontario College of Art in 1979 and since then his work had been shown in many group exhibitions in Toronto, Sudbury, Ottawa, Hamilton and the Milton-Campbellville area. Mr. Warren will submit two pieces of one-of-a-kind art — an original in oils and a lithographic print which is part-print and part-original.

Albert Casson's work will be featured also. Some of Mr. Casson's earlier work will be shown and his more recent limited-edition of a black-and-white print. Albert is a resident of Kilbride and has been a full-time artist since 1972. His work has been featured in a number of exhibitions throughout North America, Europe and Australia.

Well-known Bill La Ferla, owner of the Milton Visual Arts Academy on Thomas Street, is both a painter and art collector. Rather than limiting himself to a single art form or style he experiments with a wide variety of approaches. He will offer an original stone-drawn and hand-pulled lithograph and an etching in the auction.

Other local artists include Marie Clements, a long-term resident of Milton, Ruth Mudge and Steve Witherspoon. Steve will be donating a print of his newly published art work.

All proceeds from this event will be used to support YMCA programs locally and the CFUW Scholarship Fund. Tickets are available from the YMCA office and Country Lane Cards and Gifts, or phone 878-0548.

"Pulling Together" is the title of this limited-edition print and a symbol of the efforts of Milton YMCA and the Canadian Federation of University Women, Milton District. Those two organizations have pulled together a Gala Art Auction set for Friday evening. Mayor Gord Krantz and CFUW president Lilla Watson display the print by artist Shirley Deaville.
