Retiring Omagh minister honoured for his efforts

Rev. Cecil Cunningham and his wife were honoured the evening of Wednesday, Jan. 26 by the congregation of Omagh Presbyterian Church with a fellowship and presentation party.

The pastor is retiring after six years as minister at Omagh, where he has initiated many new endeavors. He encouraged and started prayer partners for the members. On Mother's Day he presented each woman at church with a carnation.

When a child was baptized, Mr. Cunningham made a presentation of a crystal bowl containing a rose bud. This was to represent the potential of a child to blossom into something as beautiful as a rose. He organized many tours and bus trips and held Bible studies combined with breakfast at a local restaurant.

While serving the church, he was a faithful visitor to the sick and shut-ins. The large attendance at the social evening was an indication of the appreciation felt for his ministry.

of Burlington, a close friend of Mr. Cunningham performed several selections, accompanying himself on his guitar. Mr. McLelland is a well-known song-writer, having composed Snowbird and Your Hand in the Hand among others.

Mrs. Cunningham was presented with roses by Laurie Lawrence. On behalf of the congregation, an address was read by Wilfrid Lawrence and Dick Vandeen presented a framed picture of Omagh church.

Mr. Cunningham will be much missed in the life of the church.

In 1988, Omagh Church had completed 150 years of leadership to this community and a brass plaque has been installed in recognition of the anniversary. It reads as follows: "To the glory of God and in memory of the pioneer ministers, elders and officers of the church and Sunday School members -- 1838-1988."

This plaque was dedicated by Rev. Cunningham and a prayer was given by Rev. Danny Moe of British Columbia who was guest speaker at the Jan. 29 service. Following Mr. Cunningham's last message to the Sunday School class, Happy Birthday was sung to Katie Patterson and Jennifer Vanderbreggen.

Hornby euchre party at the centre on Jan. 28 had the following winners: Vera Durrie, Evelyn Wilkie, Elva Middlebrook, Dorothy Featherstone, Myrtle Cunningham, Tom Bousfield, Frank Dowling and Mariel Medeiros. Lone hands were played by Mary Chamberlain and Ella Switzer who both had four.
