May Crawford officially opened the Campbellville Country Court shopping plaza Sunday. The plaza is located on Crawford Cres., which was named after Mrs. Crawford and her late husband Lloyd. The Crawfords are known locally for operating a lumber yard for many years and for the former location of the family cottage. Helping cut the ribbon is developer William Trenwith Sr. (right) and longtime Campbellville resident Doris Wheelihan (centre).

New plaza goes country for its grand opening

Campbellville Country Court resembled the Wild West Sunday. A shoot-out between Black Bart and Milton Mayor Gord Krantz, country music and pony rides were all part of the action at the grand opening of the new plaza. Country and Western music star Tommy Hunter, master of ceremonies was joined by Gordie Tapp.

A crowd estimated at 2,000 people attended the celebration, which included prizes, sales and numerous other special events.

Located at 35 Crawford Cres., the plaza is home to more than 20 businesses and other organizations.

Campbellville Video and Dry Cleaners offers an interesting combination. Owned by Kim Seo, the store runs a one-day dry cleaning service and also carries a selection of videos to suit almost everyone's taste.

Country Boots and Duds can provide a complete western look. Owner Joanne Wray says she can outfit customers from head to toe.

The Campbellville Pharmacy is also located in the plaza. Manager John Han promises customers reliable and convenient service.

Other vendors include; Campbellville Country Market, A Gift Horse, Sliding Seale Realty Ltd., Granfaloon's Cafe, Brush Electrical Machines, Ridley Custom Windows and Doors, La Ville Fashion Boutique and Lobelio Fur.

Zanatta Construction built the plaza. Ridley Custom Windows and Doors contributed to the exterior design.

Dental and physician's offices, the Ontario Harness Horsemen's Association, Campbellville Country Meadows Inc., the Ministry of Correctional Services, Roof Tile Management Inc. and C.P.L. Office Products and Printing Ltd. are also located at the plaza.
