

Can you spare time to help look after toy library?

Will you help build the habit of helping in Milton? The following volunteers are needed:

- A health service facility in Milton needs someone to type and do other basic clerical work one morning per week. Orientation and training will be provided on the job.
- An agency offering children's programs needs a volunteer who can help look after its toy library. This person will oversee the borrowing and returning of the toys, help keep the files up to date and generally manage the inventory of the collection. The job requires about four hours per month. Several agencies operating in Milton are looking for people who either have experience in public relations and fundraising or are interested and enthusiastic about learning to raise funds and do promotional work. The commitment of time is flexible and negotiable with the various agencies.

Now is the time to start thinking about volunteer jobs in the fall and winter. If you would like to volunteer, but are not sure what you could do or where you could fit in, call the Milton Volunteer Centre for an appointment.

The need for volunteers has never been greater and the variety of volunteer jobs is just as great. Contact Lorraine Street at the Milton Volunteer Centre, 311 Commercial St., for details about these and other opportunities to help.

Foster's

Another blimp glides into countryside

Rev. Wayne Maddock was guest minister at Boston and Omagh churches on Sunday, Aug. 13. Rev. Shawn Croll will be inducted to the pastoral charge on Sept. 5 at 8 p.m. at Omagh.

Residents of the area are being treated to many ways of air travel. Recently a hot air balloon landed in a farm field. On Sunday, Aug. 6 a large Foster's Jager blimp passed slowly and relatively quietly over the countryside about 10 p.m.

Birthday greetings and good wishes go out to Helen Ford, Florence McCann, Clinton Urbanek, Muriel Raynor and Gretta Vanderdeen on their special days this week.

A pleasant afternoon was spent Sunday, Aug. 13 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Howden, who held a presentation party for recent newlyweds Philip and Mary Agnus.

Robert Marshall, on behalf of a group of close friends, presented the couple with a framed Peter Snider print of a farm scene. A pot luck barbecue supper was enjoyed by all.

Mr and Mrs. Bill Craud of Listowell visited Sunday with relatives in this area.

The 111th Canadian National Exhibition will open Wednesday Aug. 16 and many residents of this area will exhibit produce and farm dairy animals.
