Sportsmen's shows benefit everyone

The Sportsmen's Shows are a profit making machine with a difference.

All the money earned from the 25 annual boat, sportsmen's and ski shows held across the country each year, and the profits from Outdoor Canada magazine, are given away to encourage Canadians to appreciate, enjoy and protect our natural heritage, say event organizers.

Last month trustees said they approved of The Sportsmen's Shows approved $964,186 in grants to more than 100 non-profit organizations across Canada. The group will meet again in the fall to consider applications for further grants.

The Bruce Trail Association received $50,000 to secure a bridge for a portion of the trail. The Bruce Trail runs the length of the Niagara Escarpment from Niagara Falls in the south, through Halton Region, to Tobermory at the northern tip of the Bruce Peninsula.

In addition, money was forwarded to groups making water safety videos, sailing instruction programs, and doing studies on acid rain.
