Open house next week to talk about new dump

Area residents can find out about the new 4-million tonne garbage dump currently under construction in Milton at an open house next Wednesday (Nov. 28) at the Boyne Community Centre.

The community centre is located on Britannia Road, about 100 metres east of Highway 25 — less than a kilometre away from the dump.

Wayne Green, acting director of design and construction for Halton Region, said it's the first of three open houses scheduled to be held throughout the construction phase of the landfill, now slated to open on July 1, 1992, at an ever-soaring cost currently tagged at about $36.5 million.

The exhibition will be open from 3-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m.

Consultants and regional staff will be on hand to respond to residents' concerns.

Mr. Green expects residents will have a lot on their minds. Questions raised frequently in the past, he said, deal with such issues as: Control of litter, odor, dust, noise, visual impacts, birds and pests; protection of ground and surface water; and possible end uses of the site when it closes.

The Region's objectives with the first meeting, he said, are to:

- Describe how Halton is proceeding, beginning with the current design and testing stage, through construction, to the opening.
- Outline avenues for public participation on various waste management committees.
- Outline progress in the project to date and what the end product will look like.
- Receive comments from the public on ways to avoid or minimize any off-site impacts.

Acting public works commissioner Bruce Kitchen, in his report to Wednesday's planning and public works committee meeting, assured that "on reviewing the public's response to the first open house . . . the program will be further modified to meet the needs of the public."
