Thank you!

James Douglas, president of the Milton Rotary Club, presents a $5,000 cheque to the Town as part of the organization's commitment to provide transit for physically challenged residents of Milton and the surrounding area. A portion of the money came from a memorial fund set up in memory of late Rotarian Larry Spencer. Here, Milton Mayor Gord Krantz readily accepts the cheque.

In My Backyard
with SANDY AMODIO

Get into the act

Now is the time to start doing practical things to help the environment. My worries about the environment used to be reserved for the weekend — after I'd read an entire section of the newspaper on the dismal future of the planet. I'd go to bed that night feeling more informed — but too overwhelmed to do anything about it.

Realizing I couldn't pack up and move to some unspoiled little town in Prince Edward Island, I began to think about what I could do for the environment where I am now. I learned there are many ways we can reduce the amount of waste and pollution we produce in our homes and at work. Try investing a little time in these tasks sometime this week.

- Arrange a family meeting. Write down the typical things you throw out each day. Brainstorm about ways you can cut down your garbage — think reduce, reuse, recycle. Put your ideas into practice.

- If you need help with ideas on things you can do at home there are books and videos available at Milton Public Library.

Sandy Amodio is a resident of rural Milton who has brought her concern for the health of the planet to her own backyard.

Correction

A photo caption published in the Dec. 7 issue of The Champion included some incorrect information.

Halton Centennial Manor Auxiliary contributed $6,000 toward the purchase of tables and chairs for the home for the elderly and an additional $5,000 for the purchase of pianos and a soft drink machine. Scotch Block Women's Institute matched the $6,000 donation for the purchase of more tables and chairs. The photo caption incorrectly attributed the $5,000 donation to the women's institute. The Champion regrets any inconvenience this error may have caused.
