THE AUTO EXPERTS

Steve Power

Power's department part of the action at Richardson Chev-Olds

Parts for any make, model or year of vehicle can be found at Richardson Chev Olds.

Some parts may have to be ordered but are usually delivered the next day, says parts department manager Steve Power. About 95 per cent of the inventory is for late model General Motors vehicles. Many of the customers who bring their cars to Richardson's for service have purchased their vehicles there. Quite a few customers keep coming back to buy vehicles and to have them cared for, according to Steve.

A Milton resident for more than 30 years, he has worked at Richardson's since 1977. He started as a delivery person and moved up to become manager of the department in 1985. Steve is one of three staff in the parts department. Together they help keep business flowing in and out of the 13-bay garage.

Service includes anything from a lube, oil and filter to a brake job. In many cases a customer can choose between a new or a rebuilt starter, water pump or generator to name a few. This allows for some flexibility in price, says Steve.

The amount of stock at the dealership has grown since Steve started working there. It's also evolved with the auto industry by introducing a selection of electronic parts including sensors and electronic control modules.

An accessories catalogue links customers with a full range of extras for their GM cars and trucks. In stock is a variety of mirrors, floor mats, running boards, box liners, front-end bras and mud guards.

Richardson's garage is open for service from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays except Tuesday when it's open until 9 p.m.
