Appeal unfortunate

Dear Editor:

Re: Co-Driver's sentence appealed, The Canadian Champion April 17

That this tragedy is not being consigned to history is in itself tragic. It seems that there must be an appeal contesting the wisdom of Judge James Fuller who passed sentence on the co-driver of the vehicle.

Like all parents, we suffer agonies while our sons and daughters progress through what is one of the most vulnerable periods of their lives.

This accident could so easily have involved one of our children not so long ago or to almost any of their friends.

I believe that the responsibility in this instance must be shared by everyone who took part in the celebration.

This was not an act of deliberate criminal intent but rather one of thoughtlessness by all concerned. Each one will have a difficult enough time putting thoughts of that fateful day out of mind.

The family whose daughter was co-driver are pillars in the community.

Surely there is little to be gained by dragging this unfortunate affair through the Appeal Courts.

Students invest in environment

Dear Editor:

We are students in Mr. Manchester's class at Martin Street School.

As our commitment to our future we have established personal goals for caring for the environment.

For Earth Week (April 20-25), we have dedicated our time and energy to help clean up our school yard and the area surrounding the Mill Pond. From this project, we accumulated a total of 50 kg (110 pounds) of litter including 18 kg (40 pounds) of various bottles and cans which we recycled.

We enjoyed seeing how much nicer the area looked.

Please take time to enjoy the area and help us to realize our commitment.

Reding draws 163 blood donors

Dear Editor:

Bishop Reding High School thanks the volunteers and staff of the Milton and Hamilton Red Cross teams and to everyone who came to the blood donor clinic which was held in the gym on Thursday, Apr. 17. The clinic received tremendous support through donations from Domino's Pizza, Tim Horton's, The Second Cup, M&M Meats, Town and Country Donuts, Subway Sub and A&P.

The clinic was organized and run by Brian Arseneault, head of the physical education department, Laurie Doyle, student co-ordinator and several helpful students.

Bishop Reding is proud to announce that they surpassed their goal of 150 donors, bringing in 163 students, staff and others from the area who were each willing to give of themselves for a worthy cause.

Minister says real spiritual power is only available from God

Dear Editor:

Another "Psychic Fair" hit our town last weekend, and so close on the heels of that recently held at the Muddy Duck Restaurant.

The article in The Champion covering that event in January was written in the spirit of "something for everyone", to which my colleagues and I take exception.

In uncertain times, many of us have an understandable desire, perhaps even bordering on urgency in some, to know what the future holds.

The lottery business is booming as many struggle to secure their future as best as they can, and may understandably believe the more you know about the future the better you can prepare for it.

Though many claim that psychic fairs are "just for fun", there is a real spiritual draw to such events because of the conviction, subconscious or otherwise, that real spiritual power is available.

Our adamant opposition to such activity is precisely for this reason — real spiritual power is available to those who seek it and put their trust in it.

But power from where? And is it for us or against us?

The Bible clearly warns us against such activity as both evil in nature and destructive in its effect.

As each of us faces the future, may we encourage one another to put our trust in the living God and His un-failing love, recognizing the challenge being one essentially of who we will believe rather than how much we can know.
