

Ottawa is the centre of celebrations for 125 days

(NC)—Every year hundreds of thousands of Canadians pour into our country's Capital to participate in an enormous birthday party for Canada. This year's celebration promises to be extra special. It isn't just any anniversary, it's our 125th. Not only will we be blowing out candles on Canada

Day, the Capital will become a living theatre throughout 125 days of exciting activities.

Much of the action will take place at Canada House, where 15,000 square feet of innovative exhibits and a cavalcade of exciting events are waiting to be enjoyed. Designed especially for young people, and featuring Canadian achievement as its central theme, Canada House is located minutes from Parliament Hill.

Specific attractions include a dazzling array of interactive computer technology, a "Quilt for Canada," an "Idea Attic," where inventions of the past and present are displayed, and a treasure hunt. The winning entries from the Great Canadian Video Challenge, a nation wide contest for young Canadians to express their thoughts about Canada in a three minute video, will be shown at Canada House throughout the summer.

Whether it's to marvel at the achievements of our compatriots, or simply to rejoice about the country we live in, Canadians from coast to coast will be coming to the Capital this summer to share in the celebrations. Festivities will run from May 6th to September 7th 1992.
