

Letting off some steam

The Great Canadian Antique Tractor Field Days at the Ontario Agricultural Museum brought exhibitors and antique fanciers to the local museum over the weekend.

Photo bottom centre: Joel Potwork, 4, found there was fun for all ages and tractors for all sizes at the annual event.

Photo below: Five-year-old Matthew MacGregor makes his way through a huge puddle on the museum grounds. A rainy Saturday was followed by sunny skies for the second day of the event which featured an old-fashioned threshing bee, contests and displays.
