Politicians ponder plan for more power over police

By ROB KELLY

The Champion

A provincial panel has recommended municipal government get more control over police budgets. But some Halton politicians are adopting a wait-and-see attitude, and at least one is openly skeptical about whether anything will change.

The Expert Panel on Municipal Police Services Budgets says regional councils should have final authority over police spending. At present they don't. If the local police board feels financing is inadequate, it can appeal the budget to the Ontario Civilian Commission on Police Services. Regional staff say municipal governments have never won such a case.

The panel proposal says the part of the Police Services Act giving the civilian commission the right to settle budget disputes should be scrapped. But police could still appeal to the commission if municipal cutbacks are seen to threaten "adequate and effective" policing.

Milton Mayor Gord Krantz, who sits on the regional administration and finance committee which heard the expert panel outline Wednesday, saw the "adequate and effective" provision as a giant loophole.

"What is really going to change, if anything? Are we (regional council) just going to be a rubber stamp? I think we are," Mr. Krantz said.

In the past when disagreements arose between police and Halton, police sabre rattling about appealing budgets has caused regional council to cave in, Mr. Krantz said. "We have been threatened and

Spirits at Bronte

Bronte Creek Provincial Park will hold a spiritual event this weekend.

Enjoy the comforts of a campfire tomorrow night (Saturday) at 7:30 and then take an evening hike through the fields and forest Sunday.

Space for the program is limited. Pre-register by calling 827-6911, ext. 231.

Meet at the Visitor's Centre for the campfire and in parking lot F at 8:10 p.m., 8:30 p.m., 8:50 p.m., or 9:10 p.m. for the hike.

The entry fee into the park is $6 per vehicle or $3 for seniors and the disabled.

Guard hawk at Andrews

The public is invited to meet Stormin Norman, the Harris Hawk, this weekend and next at Andrews Scenic Acres.

The bird guards the blueberry patch from other birds at the No. 10 Sideroad pick-your-own farm.

He will visit with patrons August 15, 16, 22, and 23 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

Blueberry desserts, corn, and pony and wagon rides will also be part of the family fun.
