

Workshop for parents

Dealing with professionals can be frustrating. Doctors, teachers, and other professionals are part of a child's life and parents must work with them on the child's behalf.

Craig Shields will tell parents Thursday about the different roles that professionals take on and how parents can cope so that everyone wins.

Mr. Shields, author of a book on the subject Strategies, A practical guide to dealing with professionals and human service systems, will make the presentation for both parents and professionals at the Region of Halton on Bronte Road at 7:30 p.m. The speaker will discuss typical ways that professionals approach parents.

Parents will learn to better communicate and work with professionals.

The cost is $2 per person at the door.

For more information, call the Children's Services Co-ordinating and Advisory Group at 825-6000, ext. 7152.

Nominate an outstanding citizen for an award

Citizens who are showing leadership in provincial or national organizations and should be recognized for their outstanding citizenship should win an award.

Nominations are being sought for the Citation for Citizenship award, given each year by Multiculturalism and Citizenship Minister Gerry Weiner.

The award will be presented to 25 individuals and organizations across Canada during National Citizenship Week, April 11-17, 1993.

The Citations recognize Canadian leaders and organizations who give their time and expertise to strengthen the fabric of Canadian society. Whether they are active in the private, public or volunteer sectors, they are committed to a variety of activities which encourage others to get involved and to promote the values of Canadian citizenship — freedom, justice, equality and respect for diversity.

Since they were instituted in 1988, the Citations for Citizenship have been awarded to 125 Canadian individuals and organizations.

To make a nomination, send for a form and more information: Citizenship Registration and Promotion, Multiculturalism and Citizenship Canada, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 1K5.
