

To market, to market, to carve a fat pumpkin. That's what Crystal Newton did on Saturday morning along with other competitors in the annual farmers market contest. Her entry won the best dressed division with its carrot top hair and cauliflower ears.

Market takes the cake

A 20th anniversary party for the downtown farmers market was held on its final day of the season Saturday. Officials, including Chamber of Commerce president Carol McDonald (left) and Mayor Gord Krantz (right) cut the cake which was shared with market goers. The market has grown in popularity over the years especially since it moved to Main Street which is closed to traffic each Saturday morning from mid-May to October to accommodate the vendors.

Crown Attorney moves into private practice

Paul Stunt, Halton's head Crown Attorney for the past three and a half years, will soon be leaving public services to join the Oakville/Georgetown law firm of O'Connor MacLeod.

Mr. Stunt, 45, has been prominent in legal circles for his successful prosecution of numerous high profile murder cases over the last several years.

He conducted the cases against Stephan Olah and James Ruston, the brutal gas bar killers of a Hudson's Bay executive, Graham Court and Peter Monaghan, the contract killers of a Toronto Mafia figure and the Wood brothers, three career criminals from Guelph who murdered a young woman who was going to be a Crown witness against them in another case.

"I feel that my experience in a broad range of criminal charges including Young Offender work and my knowledge of the system will well serve my future clients," said Mr. Stunt.

O'Connor MacLeod, located in Oakville and Georgetown is Halton's largest law firm, providing legal services in most specialties.

"Mr. Stunt is one of the most respected and knowledgeable criminal lawyers in the province. We are delighted to have him join our firm," said Terry O'Connor, a partner at O'Connor MacLeod.

Mr. Stunt, originally from St. Catharines, has been active in legal and educational circles, having lectured at Brock University on criminal law.

He is a frequent panelist/moderator and has been vice-president of the Ontario Crown Attorney's Association.
