WE STILL NEED TO REMEMBER

Young mothers with babies hug them closer
 As the parade goes by, a living poster.
 Old ones speak in tones of reverence, Lines of veterans, slow-stepping cadence Far off looks, a time of reverie,
 For those comrades there in memory.
 Their dwindling numbers, friendships treasured,
 As the drums roll along, sorrowful, measured.
 But the ranks are again starting to grow,
 Wearing the uniform, ready to go.
 New faces determined, young and proud Proclaiming their allegiance out strong and loud.
 They live in a world that needs to regain
 A sense of peace, of a life that is sane.
 Before we lose the gifts those veterans gave,
 That precious freedom we need to save.
 When Remembrance Day comes, that annual event,
 And we stand for that minute to pray for lives spent,
 In keeping us safe and free from such misery Let's hope we need never repeat the horrors of history.

Dedicated to the men and women of our forces who have already given their lives in the pursuit of freedom and to those who now defend that legacy every day all over the world.
