Police chief suffers minor heart attack

Halton Regional Police Chief James Harding is resting comfortably after a mild heart attack last Friday.

The 58-year-old Chief is expected to remain in the intensive care unit at Joseph Brant Memorial Hospital in Burlington for several more days.

"Just prior to coming into work (Friday) he felt a little uncomfortable, a little pressure in his chest, and he thought he'd better be safe and make sure everything's okay," said Sergeant Joe Martin, the force media relations officer.

While at the hospital Chief Harding suffered a heart attack "described as mild," Sgt. Martin said.

Chief Harding has been head of the Halton force since 1979. The Welsh-born police officer has been a strong opponent of racism, and an advocate for recruiting minority police officers.

He recently returned from South Africa, where he offered advice on policing as that country's apartheid system is dismantled.

Fire Chief Richard Playfair resigns

Milton Fire Chief Richard Playfair is resigning as of the end of the month. Mr. Playfair was not available for comment at press time, but unconfirmed reports have him accepting the chief's position in Stoney Creek.

Mayor Gord Krantz confirmed the fire chief is resigning. "He's going to leave at the end of the year." As far as a replacement, "I could see somebody coming on in February or March," Mr. Krantz said.

Mr. Playfair succeeded Blake Patrick, who resigned after a short stint as chief approximately three years ago.
