

If I could visit Santa Claus at the North Pole

Matthew Craig, Grade 4-5, St. Peter's

See all the elves

I would go on my horse. I would sprinkle fairy dust on him to make him fly. I would sail over towns and cities.

I would see all the snow on the roof tops and feel the snow on my head. I would see the colourful lights too.

When I get to the North Pole I would see that my horse would be white instead of brown.

I would see all the little elves hard at work in a little tiny room and Mrs. Claus sewing up all her winter clothes.

Best of all Santa Claus would be in bed asleep getting his rest for the big night just two days away. I would see what my brother and sister get for Christmas but I would not see my own. The little elves would have hid it on me.

Have fun

I would ask for a racing car, a tool box and a hammer and stuff. I would get a ride on the sleigh. I would get to see Rudolph. I would like to see elves too. I would have fun.

Mom let me go

One week before Christmas I gave my mom my Christmas list and she said would you like to go to the North Pole.

I said yes. But we had to do a lot of stuff so my mom said, "I don't want you to go to the North Pole." I said, "But I want to go." So she finally let me go and I went. I got to help with the work.

Help make toys

I would help Santa make toys in the workshop. I would help Santa deliver the presents to the houses on Christmas Eve.

Then I would go down stairs and open the presents and then start a fire and sit by the fire and play with my gifts.

Find a toy

I would look for a toy I would ask if I could use it. If Santa said yes, I would play with it all the time.

Get lost

I would go on skis and I would plan to go in a hotel for the night. Then, the next day I would go on a sled for half of my journey and later on in the day when it gets colder, I would get lost once or twice. I would look for a gas station and I'd think that I found his house. But it all ends out that I don't find his house after all. But maybe I'll have better luck next year.

Deer wash

If I could visit Santa I would ask him to pick me up. I would get presents and I would meet the elves and Mrs. Claus. I would make toys and books. I would have to wash the reindeer and dry them. I would be spoiled rotten because I could eat all the candy canes. I would get an elf suit and when I got home my mom would say Ryan Batten what happened to you? I would say, "nothing."

Are you sure? OK mom I will tell you I went to the North Pole to visit Santa. Do you want me to tell you how it went? Sure. First I got Santa to pick me up and then we went back to his workshop.
