

Red Cross open late in mercy mission to Rwanda

The Milton Canadian Red Cross branch has collected $285 for Rwandan aid and is extending its office hours today (Wednesday) and tomorrow to better accommodate others wishing to donate.

Today and Thursday the branch will be open until 8 p.m. to allow more convenient access for people making donations in efforts to alleviate the current tragedy in Rwanda. The Red Cross has been appealing for donations to assist Rwanda refugees who fled war and their homeland in huge numbers, and are now facing disease and hunger in adjacent Zaire. The donations can be made in person, or by credit card over the telephone, and a tax receipt is issued for any donation $10 or more.

The Milton branch is at 42 Bronte Street South (L9T 5A8) or (905) 875-1459.

As with all international relief donations, the Red Cross "100 per cent" policy is in effect — 100 per cent of all donations for Rwandan aid will be channeled directly to Rwandan relief work, with nothing going to local administrative costs.

The Milton branch, like all Red Cross branches, has the 100 per cent policy thanks to its United Way funding, Red Cross special event fundraising and its large volunteer base.
