This brand new car can be yours for two years by participating in Hike for Health, a fundraiser for Milton District Hospital, Sunday, May 26. Here, Heather Penman of the hospital foundation, Morley Richardson of Richardson Chev-Olds, and Betty Ingle and Bruce Hood of the foundation pose with the vehicle. See story at right.

One lucky hiker will drive instead

Somebody who takes part in the Sunday, May 26 Hike for Health won't have to do much hiking anymore.

That's because the lucky participant will win the use of a Chevrolet Cavalier for two years, courtesy of Richardson Chev Olds in Milton.

Anyone who pledges $25 or more, or any hike participant who raises $100 or more in pledges, will have a shot at the vehicle draw.

The Hike for Health is an annual fundraiser for Milton District Hospital, and funds generated this year will go toward Milton's share of the cost for a magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) unit to be shared among Halton hospitals.

People can choose to walk or run and select the distance they want to cover. There will be a 10 kilometre run for the more active crowd and both four and six kilometre walks, all along rural roadways, for the less athletically inclined.

Registration takes place at the hospital, between 10:30 a.m. and 11:45 a.m. for the run, and between 11:30 a.m. and 12:45 for the walks. The entry fees for runners or walkers is $10 each, or $20 for families.

For more information contact Donna McLaughlin at Milton District Hospital, 878-2382, ext. 2170.

Police Week a chance to inform citizens

"We're busy. We're being stretched thinner all the time," he said.

On Wednesday, the officer spent a few hours outside Sam Sherratt School watching for motorists violating stop signs.

"It's surprising how many people blow stop signs completely," said Constable Dunham, who has spent the last five years in Milton uniformed patrol, except for a six-month stint in the Criminal Investigations Bureau. "It's amazing what being parked here does."

The notions of police handing out tickets to reach quotas or bring in revenue are ridiculous, he said.

Decisions on whether to charge drivers under the Highway Traffic Act are at the discretion of officers, who are more hesitant to give tickets than in previous years, he said.

Constable Dunham said police are more often considering the cost of driving offence fines and the jump in insurance premiums that follows, and are issuing more warnings in appropriate situations.
