

For education

New parents' lobby group

There is a new group for Halton parents concerned about the quality of their children's education.

The Halton Alliance of School Parent Organizations (HASPO) emerged as a response to the pink slips given to hundreds of teachers in March.

The new group emphasizes quality, coordination and information in all aspects of education.

For more information about the group, call 338-9805 or 845-7374.
