Man is charged in sex assault

A Wasaga Beach man faces charges after a woman was sexually assaulted in rural Milton Friday.

The 19-year-old Mississauga woman was attacked by a male acquaintance at about 11:15 p.m. after he lured her into a field on the pretext of listening to something, Halton Regional Police said.

"Once there, the male came up behind the female and began to choke her," said Halton police spokesman Sgt. Frank Phillips.

The woman broke free, police said, but her attacker caught up with her a short distance away.

"The male then began to punch the female repeatedly in the head," Sgt. Phillips said. "Eventually the female was sexually assaulted by the male."

After the assault, the attacker drove the woman to Hamilton and dropped her at a friend's home.

Hamilton-Wentworth Regional

Police were contacted and a man was later arrested. The suspect was turned over to Halton police.

A 23-year-old man is charged with sexual assault causing bodily harm and choking.

TAX SAVINGS & DIVERSIFICATION

Oil & natural gas limited partnerships (or LPs) offer investors tax deductions in the year of purchase and tax preferred quarterly cash flow of up to 10% tax-free per year. The LPs purchase producing gas and oil proprietors in Western Canada. The investor receives 85% of the revenue from the sale of the oil and gas. Depletion and royalty tax credits flow through to the investors to tax shelter the cash flow received. Ultimately the whole investment is deducted.

Oil & gas are commodities and have a low correlation to stocks, bonds and mutual funds. Adjusted for inflation, current oil and gas prices are near the low prices of the early 1970's before the Arab oil embargo. World wide demand is growing by 2% per year while supplies are falling. The North Sea, Gulf of Mexico and Alaska are at or past their peak production. New supplies are much more expensive to produce in Hibernia or the Tar Sands.

Oil and gas limited partnerships offer excellent diversification, regular cash flow and tax savings.
