FAMILY REUNIONS-OFFSHORE OR AT A CARIBBEAN RESORT!

Families getting together for a reunion are becoming more and more popular on CRUISE-SHIPS or at CARIBBEAN RESORTS these days. It seems everybody has such a busy life that long range plans for grandparents, parents, and grandchildren to get together for a vacation/ family reunion is 'The Way To Go' for many!

AN EXAMPLE - A secluded tropical getaway in ST. CROIX is the CHENAY BAY BEACH RESORT, which is offering family reunion packages at a special rate up until December 20th. Also if you book five cottages, the sixth is free, and there is no charge for children under 12 to stay and eat, and children up to 18 stay free of charge (accompanied by parents, of course!)

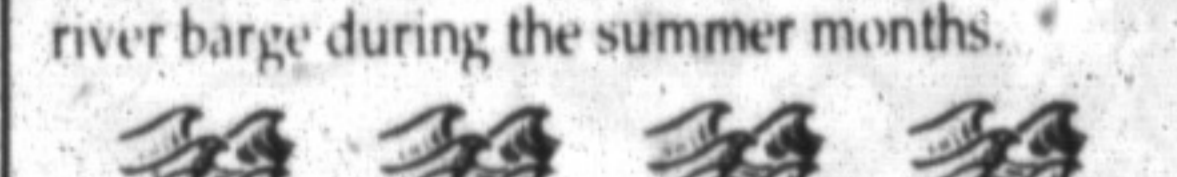

THE BIG RED BOAT CRUISES which are for three or four nights are offered by ENCORE CRUISES in CANADIAN DOLLARS - another good 'family reunion' package idea. They have a KIDS SAIL FREE program available up to December 15, where up to three children (ages 2-9) can sail free when sharing with two full fare adults. This can be combined with a FLORIDA STAYOVER as well.

AND SPEAKING OF FLORIDA, the BREAKERS at PALM BEACH is celebrating its 100th anniversary with a CENTENNIAL PACKAGE offer. It seems that over the years many visitors to Florida have stayed at this historic resort at one time or another, with many returning year after year. They offer 'Centennial Sports Dollars' which can be applied to tennis, golf and water sports, plus certificates with savings at their retail shops and for food and beverages.

Here at home: A CANADIAN EXPERIENCE described as 'one long to be remembered' is a cruise on the POLAR PRINCESS out of MOOSONEE. The one day excursions go up the river from Moosonee into JAMES BAY where on some trips BELUGA WHALES are spotted. The boat makes a stop at MOOSE FACTORY ISLAND, and a bus tour of the island, once a trading post, is taken. A long way north, Moosonee is only accessible by rail, or by river barge during the summer months.

A Milton man faces several charges, including impaired driving, following a two-car crash in Burlington. Three people were injured in the collision at the intersection of Fairview Street and Maple Avenue shortly before midnight Saturday. The crash occurred after a car ran a red light, Halton Regional Police said. A passenger in one of the vehicles broke an arm and leg, police said. Details of the other injuries were not available, however they were described as not life threatening. Charged with dangerous driving, driving with over the legal limit of alcohol in his blood and three counts of impaired driving causing bodily harm is a 19-year-old Milton man.

By BRAD REAUME
The Champion

Halton council agreed recently to release more sewage capacity to some Milton developers late next year. Negotiations with local developers resulted in two "slight" changes to the proposed bylaw according to Joe Rinaldo, Halton's commissioner of corporate services. Mr. Rinaldo explained to council the changes were not alterations in policy, rather, they were clarifications made to satisfy the development industry. "If developers don't require a (bigger sewage) connection they are not subject to the surcharge," Mr. Rinaldo told council. He also explained that landowners with current approvals will pay additional development charges only when they exceed their current water limits. Mr. Rinaldo told council that developers were relatively satisfied with the bylaw. "Under a 1980 agreement they (land interests in Milton's High Point Business Park) have an allowance for (sewage and water) capacity," said Mr. Rinaldo. If they exceed that capacity they pay. We've done this for years. It's not hard to administer." Council heard the water use is monitored and flagged if it is excessive. Howard Mott, legal council for several developers in the Milton area, said the bylaw is under review, adding, "We haven't come to loggerheads with anyone. We want it to go ahead." The reason people are haggling over newfound water and sewage treatment capacity is the Zenon project, a $1.9 million test of filter technology which, if successful, will allow Milton to upgrade the wastewater capacity of its treatment plant. The extra capacity could allow substantial building to take place in advance of plans for a complete solution to Milton's water problem. Developers utilizing the extra capacity will pay the cost of the test in the form of a special development charge. Letters of credit, which could eventually serve as payment for the special development charges, are due in the fall, according to Mr. Mott. He was unable to say if at that time developers and government would be forced to come to terms if they wanted a deal to go forward.
