Robberies on the rise in Milton

115 to 120 pounds, five-foot-four to five-foot-five with a slender build and light complexion.

She was wearing dark pants, a waist-length black leather or suede jacket and a thick purple elastic band in her hair. She may have been wearing glasses.

The National Trust was also robbed by a man September 30, as was the Bank of Nova Scotia at the Laurier Centre at Laurier Avenue and Ontario Street. Arrests were made in connection with the Bank of Nova Scotia hold up.

The culprits responsible for the robberies are believed to come from out of town because they generally don't wear disguises — an indication that they aren't afraid of being recognized, Det. Sgt. Walsh said.

Anyone with information on Friday's robbery is asked to contact Halton police at 878-5511, ext. 2416, or Crime Stoppers at 825-8477.
