Full house

Alice Muirhead arranges two of her handcrafted wool and needlepoint miniature English houses. She was selling them at a craft and bake sale put on by Seniors Club 88 at the Royal Canadian Legion Saturday.

Free computer time for businesses

Businesses can now book a one hour slot at a computer workstation through the Halton Region Business Development Centre.

Business people can research items using the Internet, develop business plans using software packages available from commercial banks, use business oriented CD-ROMs and access Microsoft Office programs. The workstations are organized in an easy to use way. Internet research can be speeded up through a listing of special interest sites. Businesses with their own Internet access can get this information through the Business Development Centre's website at www.haltonbusiness.com.

The workstation service is free. To book a time contact Irene Zimmerman at 825-6300. The Halton Region administration centre is located on Bronte Road (Highway 25) just north of the Queen Elizabeth Way in Oakville.

IT'S TIME to rekindle the flame!

The colder weather is rolling in and there is no better way to keep the chill out, then by basking in the warmth and glow of candlelight! Visit the Wizard for all of your candle needs. We have the area's largest selection of flame-related products.
