

Trio works to better Milton

Mary Long. The former-municipal councillor has spearheaded a number of initiatives — including her popular Caribbean Nights — which have raised thousands for the town's health care centre.

Ms Long moved to Canada in 1975 and made an immediate contribution to the community.

She began by escorting school trips at both Robert Baldwin and W.I. Dick public schools. Later she spread herself to volunteer efforts with the Milton Library Board, Milton Senior Services and Milton Community and Information Services.

A flair for the dramatic has seen her organize many events in conjunction with her Jamaican heritage. Her Caribbean Nights alone raised $50,000 for the hospital over a five-year span.

The food bank is yet another beneficiary of her generosity. She has helped run food drives and often delivers groceries to Milton's less fortunate.

She also finds time to run her own small business.

Ms Long's nominator stressed, "This is a woman who loves life, enjoys meeting people, is proactive and makes things happen."

Bert Stewart wasn't in town when the chamber sent news of his nomination. In fact, he wasn't even in the country.

"I was in Brazil for nine days on business when they (Chamber) called my house. I was certainly surprised and excited when I phoned home and got the news from my wife," he said.

A leader in the local agricultural industry for many years, Mr. Stewart has spent the majority of his adult life coaching 4-H club members for dairy competitions.

With expertise and passion for his field, he has led many a team to provincial and national titles over a 30-year span.

"There were 4-H leaders who spent time with me when I was young, so I felt I owed it to the organization to put something back in," said Mr. Stewart.

He is also a founding member of the 4-H Jr. National Dairy Show, part of the annual Royal Winter Fair at Toronto's Exhibition Place.

The Milton Curling Club, Hornby Baseball Club, Halton Minor Softball Association and Knox Presbyterian Church are all groups with which Mr. Stewart is associated.

As well, he has helped raise funds for the local hospital foundation.

The Citizen of the Year recipient, along with other Community Award winners, will be announced during a gala evening at Halton Hills Place Saturday, April 5.
