

VOLUNTEER WEEK 13-19

Volunteers Our Greatest Natural Resource

On Monday, thank a Milton volunteer

As we confront the next millennium there is a widespread feeling that the time is ripe to revitalize our communities and renew our commitment to one another as citizens. In these tough social and economic times we have become acutely aware how critical it is to maintain the quality of life in our community and ensure the well-being of our citizens. In earlier days, the ideal community was tightly-knit and homogeneous. It was a relatively small place where citizens could find comfort and security in knowing and caring for one another.

In modern society, we have a greater expanded and diverse population base and a radically different style of life in an urban community. The challenge today is to create a shared vision for a community that will be responsive to a rich diversity of backgrounds and needs.

Vital to any strategy of community renewal are the many volunteers who donate their time and talents to help individuals, organizations and causes. Over the years, volunteers have had a profound influence on the lives of countless people, and they have moulded the character of our community. As catalysts for positive change, they have helped make our community in Canada the envy of the world for its quality of life.

As a caring community, we cannot afford to take our volunteers for granted. We simply have too much to lose. We must continually strive to cultivate the spirit of volunteerism in our community and to instill the sense of generosity and caring in our children who we will inherit the success and failures of our efforts in voluntarism.

Share in publicly recognizing the crucial role that volunteers play during National Volunteer Week by participating in Volunteer Spirit Day, Monday, April 15, and Volunteer Week April 13, to April 19. For more information on how to become a volunteer please contact your Volunteer Centre (905) 632-1975 or (905) 878-0955.
